

THE PILE GETS BIGGER AND BIGGER — Accumulated snow near a home in Calumet, Mich., almost covers the yard light as icicles hang eight feet long from the eaves. The area is in the snow belt of the Copper Country on the Keweenaw Peninsula, where 59 inches of snow was recorded in January. In 1973 Calumet had 187 inches of the white cover.

Key union joins in British strike

LONDON (AP) — A key union pledged support today for striking British miners in their bid to keep coal stocks from the nation's power stations.

As the nationwide coal strike kept the miners from the pits for their first working day, the general and municipal workers' union instructed its members at the power plants not to handle stocks of coal arriving at the plants.

The union, Britain's third largest, also said that no fuel oil should be handled after existing stocks are exhausted.

Similar instructions already had been issued by the Transport and General Workers' Union and the union of railway engineers.

The coal strike against Prime Minister Edward Heath's anti-inflation ceiling on wage raises started at midnight Saturday. But the miners have not been working overtime and Sundays for three months, so today was their first working day away from the job.

Pickets were ordered to the British Steel Corporation's works at Scunthorpe, in eastern England, to halt deliveries of coking coal.

Other pickets took station at east coast ports to stop the landing of some 500,000 tons of coal from Poland.

Several incidents were reported Sunday. Police had to clear a way for safety maintenance workers through 30 jeering miners at a colliery in Gedling, Nottinghamshire.

Three trucks were overturned when their drivers arrived at a mine in south Wales.

Meanwhile, Heath's Conservative party, in its first campaign manifesto for the general election, Heath has called Feb. 28, threatened to end government welfare payments to the wives and children of strikers.

The Conservatives said if reelected, they would amend the social security system to make the unions responsible for the support of strikers' families.

Nixon gambling with inflation?

By BILL NEIKIRK

WASHINGTON (AP) — In announcing an end to most wage-price controls by May 1, President Nixon is gambling that the price explosion rippling through the U.S. economy will subside by mid-year.

The evidence is not altogether clear

Washington energy meet opens today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger turns his negotiating arts to today's opening of a 13-nation energy conference in an effort to forge a common approach to the worldwide fuel problems.

Kissinger was due to call for cooperation, not confrontation with the oil producing countries when Foreign ministers, finance chiefs and energy experts from the nine-nation European Common Market Norway, Canada and Japan formally convenes.

However, European and Japanese leaders remain reluctant to agree on any approach that would arouse anger among the oil producing countries that could lead to a cut-off of vital fuel supplies.

Foreign Minister Walter Scheel of Germany, the president of the European community, was selected to explain the cautious position of the common market countries — France, Germany, Britain, the Netherlands, Italy, Denmark, Luxembourg and Belgium.

The most outspoken foe of the U.S. plan of unified approach was French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert who conferred late Sunday with Scheel and Kissinger.

Jobert is an ardent advocate of separate deals by individual countries with the Arab oil sheiks.

He flew to the United States on the heels of a $3-billion agreement by France with Iran. It includes nuclear power plants valued at $1.2 billion, a liquefied natural gas project costing $1 billion and special steel mill projects that will cost $750 million.

In exchange, France will have increased access to Iran's gas and oil. Previous arrangements were made with Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

2 men escape

jail at Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Two men removed a wall vent and slipped out of the Greene County Jail early today, the sheriff's office reported.

At large were Michael Moore, 21, of New York, and Willard Humphrey, 24, of Xenia. The sheriff's department said they were to be considered armed and dangerous.

Moore was serving a term for manslaughter in the 1970 killing of a Central State University student, and Humphrey was in jail on an armed robbery conviction.

Thousands returning to work

Truck strike all but over?

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

The often-violent strike by dozens of groups of disorganized independent truck drivers appeared all but over today.

There were several thousand holdouts who continued to insist they would not climb back in their rigs until diesel fuel prices are rolled back. But their numbers did not appear to be nearly enough to cause the economic hardships which resulted in a quick settlement proposal last Thursday in Washington, D.C.

Key federal officials said it looked to them like the strike was over.

Truck traffic climbed to near prestrike levels Sunday and early today, and violence was down sharply.

However, police in Beaumont, Tex., said a driver was showered with glass early today when a bullet slammed through the window of his moving truck. State police in Kentucky said four trucks were hit by bullets Sunday night, causing minor damage.

Earlier in the strike, violence took the lives of two drivers and several were injured.

At least 15,000 of the 100,000 persons laid off at the height of the 11-day shutdown were due back on the job today as many big rigs headed for markets loaded with meat, produce and industrial parts.

There was little doubt that the strike's effects would linger. Spot shortages of some foods were certain to keep meat and produce prices at high levels until supplies can be replenished.

Another certain effect is the six percent surcharge independent drivers will now be getting for their cargoes. Those increases will eventually be picked up by consumers.

Most of the major organizations involved in the strike that won guaranteed supplies of diesel fuel and higher freight rates for the independent drivers urged their men to be back on the job today.

Reports received Sunday from several areas where the strike had its biggest effects indicated many of them were already there.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, the man who got the settlement talks started, said truck traffic had increased in his state by 60 to 75 percent.

The Perilis Truck Stop, located in Cordele, Ga., on the main north-south route along the Eastern seaboard, said Sunday night its business was 70 percent of normal.

Truck traffic was reported up in Ohio. In West Virginia, officials said it looked as if truck traffic was nearly normal. Similar reports were received from several Midwest states.

With violence sharply down, the Pennsylvania National Guard was withdrawing its patrols Sunday night.

There was to be an end to Guard patrols on highways in the state which suffered what appeared to be the worst violence during the strike, although a 3,000-man year ago.

That switch from mandatory to largely voluntary restraints on wages and prices brought on such a wave of price increases that the dollar was devolved and the stock market shaken.

Eventually, Nixon went back to mandatory controls, freezing prices for 60 days. The second freeze, however, did not meet the same success of the first one in 1971. There were widespread shortages of beef and pork, and prices of other meat went up sharply.

Nixon followed the freeze with a tough wage-price system that squeezed the profits of businesses, yet failed to check the surge of prices.

The President's economic advisers declared wage-price controls counterproductive and all but useless in their annual economic report to Congress a week ago. They said Nixon would continue to decontrol the economy and eventually move to a free market.

The White House strategy is clear. It believes the worst of the price increases are occurring now, largely because the Cost of Living Council is removing controls gradually, industry by industry.

The administration plans to keep the Cost of Living Council as a watchdog over prices and wages. But outside of oil and health services, it would have little power.

Many officials believe, however, that a number of companies that have had their profit margins squeezed by Nixon's controls will now try to make up for lost time by raising prices.

Although the Cost of Living Council is trying to extract promises from industries that they will not raise prices significantly this year, those pledges could go down the drain if the economy changes drastically.

The administration's position is that no standby power to control wages and prices is necessary, and is in fact an inflationary force in itself.

The administration's projection of a mid-year tapering of price increases is not shared widely in Congress and among economists.

Yet, the administration is willing to take its lumps on the price front for several more months, at least.

The President, who in 1971 said his administration would break the back of inflation, told Congress only a week ago that it takes time to do that job.

Solon pushes bill to abolish mayor's courts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mayors' courts "are a wart on the administration of justice in Ohio" and should be abolished, says Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor.

The veteran legislator makes that observation this week as the House Judiciary Committee calls up for a hearing his measure that would abolish them "flat out."

Tulley, who has introduced the same bill for four straight legislative sessions, said he hopes for better luck this year, but has his doubts.

"There's too much political influence by the various communities that have them. I couldn't get the bill to move even when the Republicans were in the majority and when I was chairman of the Judiciary Committee," he said.

The Lake County legislator said he

Guard contingent was placed on special alert status.

In Pittsburgh, the chairman of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers told his membership Sunday night to resume driving today. William J. Hill, who heads what was believed to be the largest group involved in the shutdown, said the vast majority of steel haulers' locals had overwhelming approved the proposed settlement.

The board of the Ohio Council of Independent truckers voted early today to oust George Rynn as council president, Chairman Lester Salsgiver of Lodi said.

He said the action was taken by four of the seven board members contacted following a meeting Sunday night at Barberon at which council members voted to continue their strike.

Salsgiver said Rynn had not notified him or the council's attorney, J. Leonard Fleet of Hollywood, Fla., of the meeting. He said Fleet spent most of the weekend at Lodi.

Rynn said he had not been notified that the board fired him and claimed that he was still council president. He said if the board fired him he would take the council members into some other organization. He claimed the backing of the majority of the council's 22,000 members.

Salsgiver described the membership meeting as a "power play" and said, "This is not the time for George to be making a power play."

Rynn said he had notified Salsgiver and Fleet of the meeting, which was attended by about 500 truckers at Barberon High School.

Rynn said following the meeting that the council members would "stay out indefinitely until we get something in writing that tells us what we are going to get and when we are going to get it."

An official of the council, who asked that he not be identified, said Fleet was fired at the meeting. Salsgiver said today that Fleet was still the council's attorney.

Impeachment probabilities being studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both supporters and critics of President Nixon are quietly trying to determine the chances of Senate conviction in any presidential impeachment trial.

With the timing and nature of House impeachment action still several months away, most informed persons around the Senate say it is impossible at this point to predict the eventual vote.

Even advocates of presidential resignation or impeachment doubt that current support for Senate ouster of Nixon is anywhere close to the necessary two-thirds majority — 67 if all 100 senators vote.

One informed guess puts it under 50.

One factor complicating any accurate judgment at this point is the refusal of most senators to commit themselves. Most, including many who either publicly or privately favor the President's resignation, hope they'll never have to vote on the issue.

Many of the uncommitted are Republicans who fear a GOP disaster at the polls next November if Nixon still is in office.

These other factors complicate any current assessment:

The House Judiciary Committee has yet to define what constitutes an impeachable offense and to attempt to draw up an impeachment resolution on which the House and ultimately the Senate would be asked to vote.

Pending judicial action is expected to result in large numbers of indictments of former top Nixon aides before the issue comes before the House. One key factor is whether the indictments will touch the President directly.

Possible confrontations loom between the White House and both special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski and the House Judiciary Committee over efforts to get evidence for their investigations. A battle with the House panel could seriously imperil the President in the view of many congressional observers.

Continuing investigations, including the congressional probe of Nixon's taxes, could produce more information damaging to the President or help clear him from some charges.

Outside developments, especially in the foreign field, are counted on heavily by Nixon to reinforce his image as an active, functioning President.

Unlike the House, where Democrats have a majority sufficient to withstand some defections and still produce a majority for impeachment, the outcome in the Senate depends more on Republicans.

The Senate has 58 Democrats and 42

Poster Child dies

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Lori Ann Wagner, 13, the tiny strawberry blonde who sang her way into the hearts of millions as the 1966 March of Dimes poster child, died Saturday. Lori, who was crippled from the waist down, traveled more than 30,000 miles in 1966, appearing on dozens of telethons and in a movie with Sammy Davis Jr. She died of kidney failure.

TWO CAN LIVE AS CHEAPLY AS ONE, IF THEY'RE BOTH WORKING

The effect of the decision was that a mayor's court may continue to collect fines when a traffic offender enters a plea of guilty. If he pleads innocent, then his case must be taken to a court of record for prosecution.

"They are still operating, and milking money from those who plead guilty," Tulley said. He added: "They exist for one reason only — to make money."

"It just isn't right for a mayor to be the chief magistrate and also the chief executive officer who enforces the law."

While the mayor's courts also may handle other violations of municipal ordinances, traffic cases are said by Tulley to be the primary reason for their existence. He said "there may be a half dozen around the state that are doing a pretty effective job."

He said he has heard that some mayor's courts are operating beyond their authority "by conducting preliminary hearings in felony cases. They have no statutory right to do that."

Tulley said justice would not be impaired by abolition of mayor's courts. "We'd have to make some modifications in the municipal and county courts," adding that they already are providing court rooms, judges, juries, clerks, and other personnel to handle not guilty pleas coming out of mayor's courts.

Despite the widespread interpretation that mayor's courts grew out of speed traps with the increased use of the automobile, their history goes back much further. They date back 134 years to 1840.

Deaths, Funerals

Harry C. Minton

Harry C. Minton, 89, of Greenfield-Sabina Rd. near New Martinsburg, died at 5:45 p.m. Sunday in the Margaret Clark Oakfield Convalescent Center after six months of failing health.

A lifelong resident of Fayette County, he was a retired farmer. His first wife, the farmer Clara E. Olinger, died 1945, and his second wife, the former Olive Johnson Clickner, died in 1973.

Mr. Minton is survived by a son, Dwight, Greenfield-Sabina Rd., and two daughters, Mrs. J. Lowell (Dorothy) Miller, 14 Hali Dr., and Mrs. Robert (Mina) White, Springfield.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Parrett Funeral Home, with burial in Bush Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Robert H. Gittins

MOUNT STERLING — Dr. Robert H. Gittins, 86, of 196 Columbus St., died Sunday evening in Madison Elms Nursing Home, London. He was a retired veterinarian and the owner of Cold Spring Farm here.

Born in Franklin County, the son of William and Nettie (Looker) Gittins, he was a member of the Chamber of Commerce; past president of the Board of Public Affairs; a 50-year member of both Masonic Lodge 269 and Sterling Chapter of 74 OES, and a member of the Scottish Rite, Aladdin Temple.

He was past commander of American Legion Post 417; a member of the Madison County Farm Bureau; a 50-year member of the Madison County Veterinarian Association and a life member of the Ohio State Veterinary Medicine Association.

He graduated from Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine in 1910 and served as a lieutenant in the Veterinary Corps in the United States Army in World War I.

His wife, Edith Blaine Gittins, died in 1960. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ned R. (Martha) Bricker, of Mount Sterling; three grandchildren, including Mrs. James H. (Carolyn) Thornton, of Washington C.H., and three great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Porter Funeral Home after 7 p.m. Monday, and services will be held there at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday with the Rev. Lynn Rainsberger officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery.

Masonic services will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the funeral home. Friends are asked to contribute to the Mount Sterling United Methodist Memorial Fund or to the Ohio State University Veterinarian Scholarship fund.

FLOYD W. JAMES — Services for Floyd W. James, 78, former publisher of the New Holland Leader and a veteran of World War I, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with the Rev. Prinits Spear, pastor of the New Holland United Methodist Church officiating. Mr. James suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday while driving on U.S. 22-E.

Pallbearers for the burial in New Holland Cemetery were Jim and Steve Herbert, Tom Beatty, Steve and Harry Riggs, Warren and Tim Keeler, Drs. Byron and Dustin Stinson and Billy Briggs.

Ask Rhodes for return of license

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Real Estate Commission today asked former Gov. James A. Rhodes and nine others to return real estate brokers licenses by March 11 or face revocation of them.

The three-member board approved the resolution unanimously after a report on an investigation by its executive secretary, Robert Gippin.

Gippin was instructed to write the 10 license holders and request voluntary surrender of the documents. If the licenses are not returned by the deadline, the board said it would consider administrative steps leading to revocation.

Rhodes obtained his brokers license four days before leaving office as governor in 1971.

He said at the time he was given an oral examination for the license by the real estate commission.

Gippin, reporting to the board, said in Rhodes' case there was nothing in the files showing that an examination had been administered.

The other licensees involved were so-called "special exam" licensees, Gippin said.

The holders included J. Gordon Peltier, Rhodes' former commerce director, and Fred P. Neuen schwander, his one-time development director.

Among the other license holders were Gerald Wedren, acting commerce director under Gov. John J. Gilligan until his replacement by Dennis Shaul.

Hike output of gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon has asked refiners with adequate distillate and residual fuel supplies to increase their gasoline production to alleviate some of the shortages.

Simon, in a statement Sunday, said some refiners already have shifted to more gasoline production.

Warm weather plus energy conservation practices by the public have been the main reasons for the build-up in distillate stocks, said Simon.

East Fork dam comes under fire

He wants the area kept in its natural state.

"I have yet to hear of anyone who is hanging on the back end of a speeding boat water skiing coming up with any great thoughts that would better mankind," he said.

The Corps' report said levels of fecal coliform bacteria in the river are substantially higher than allowed by current state water quality standards.

"The obvious solution is to abandon the project and use a very small portion of the money to clear up the stream by having proper sewage treatment plants built in the various villages that discharge into the stream above the dam site," Rosenhoffer said.

He contends the lake would be filled by sediment or siltation within 50-100 years.

Rosenhoffer challenges the engineers' theory that the area will reap benefits from the recreational potential.

Gold prices skyrocket in Europe

LONDON (AP) — Gold soared to record levels on European markets today. Dealers blamed fears for the values of paper money amid mounting indications that central banks may soon increase the official price of gold.

Gold traded at $146 an ounce in London and $147 an ounce in Zurich. The price at Friday's close in London was $143.50.

Opening prices on the Zurich bullion market, the world's biggest, were $145 bid and $147 offered, up from $142-$144 Friday.

The previous record price in Zurich was $143 on Jan. 25.

The bullish weekend trend was touched off by reports from Johannesburg, the mining center for the West's gold, that a consortium of West European countries, including France, Italy and perhaps West Germany, might begin buying at a price related to the free market price.

The trend picked up because of an interview published today in which French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing said he expected an increase in the official price of gold this year.

Dozen die in Cambodia rocketing

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) —

Rockets and shells hit southern sections of Phnom Penh today, killing at least a dozen civilians in a crowded market area and falling within 100 yards of the United States Embassy. There were at least 15 rounds in the barrage.

It was the first shelling of the Cambodian capital in 10 days. Prior to that respite, almost daily attacks since Dec. 23 killed nearly 200 persons and wounded at least 500.

Preliminary police reports said the insurgents fired both high-explosive 105mm artillery shells and 122mm rockets.

Three rounds, reportedly 105mm shells, fell near the American Embassy. One exploded on the pavement almost diagonally across from the embassy building, and two others landed in the grounds of the presidential palace.

The embassy suffered no damage, but it was not immediately known what the explosions inside the palace grounds did.

Most of the shells and rockets landed in the area of the Sa Deoum Ko market in the southwestern corner of the city. It was jammed with midafternoon shoppers and vendors.

The dead, dying and wounded sprawled on the sidewalks and under the market stalls. Many of the victims were young children and women.

Several buildings were engulfed in flames, and heavy smoke blackened the sky.

11-cent meals for continental soldiers would cost $3 now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scrimping on food? Gen. George Washington, although a high-living fellow himself, was allowed 11 cents a day to feed a soldier in 1776.

The Agriculture Department, in figures released today, says a "liberal-cost" diet for a civilian male 20 to 34 years old in December averaged $2.64 per day. And the Defense Department says the modern Army marches on food costing $2.28 per day for each soldier.

According to the American Medical Association, the 11-cent ration contained much more meat. Experts estimate the same quantity of food now would cost as much as $3 per day.

Moreover, according to an AMA newsletter, the 1776 soldier's diet was terrible. The USDA diet, on the other hand, is said by experts to be well balanced.

Modern Army chow also is supposed to have its merits, according to Pentagon officials.

Food experts say soldiers in 1776 as well as now got larger portions of some foods, particularly meat. Also, they point out, even the Continental Army A and C. Both very important to good health."

Suez pullout completed

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli forces complete their withdrawal from another 200 square miles on the west bank of the Suez Canal today.

The Israeli command said it would relinquish a stretch of land extending from Jebel Geneifa on the Great Bitter Lake to three miles south of the Fayid Air Base at the northern tip of the lake.

A spokesman said when this withdrawal was completed, Israel would have returned about three-fourths of the territory it took on the west side of the canal during the October war.

No shooting has been reported on the Suez front since Egypt and Israel signed the disengagement pact on Jan. 18.

Egyptian forces on the eastern bank of the canal were reported moving men, tanks and equipment to the west bank, fulfilling their commitment to thin out their forces on the east side.

An Israeli army radio correspondent reported from the front that the Egyptians blew up four SAM missile sites as part of their evacuation.

The agreement calls for Israel to pull out of the 1,000 square miles it captured west of the canal by Feb. 21 and withdraw to a new, lightly manned line 12 miles east of the waterway by March 5. Egyptians will have control of both sides of the 103-mile canal for the first time since the 1967 war.

Egypt will withdraw about 63,000 troops from the east bank, leaving a patrol force of about 7,000 men. United Nations forces will patrol a buffer zone about six miles wide between the two armies.

The Egyptians are expected to begin work soon to reopen the canal and repopulate the battered towns along it.

Another snow!

approximately 15 tons of salt over Washington C. H. streets. Three men started street clearing operations shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday and worked until midnight and then returned at 4 a.m. Monday, according to general foreman Bill Duncan.

Winds whipped through the Fayette County area late Sunday night creating some small drifts and additional problems for workers from the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County.

Gene Fitzpatrick, superintendent, said state highway workers started their road clearing operations at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Fitzpatrick said it appeared that the northern portion of Fayette County was hit hardest by the storm.

Crews from the county road garage started concentrating on snow removal at 6:30 a.m. Monday.

NO ADDITIONAL accumulation of snow was expected Monday. The weather forecast indicated the probability of precipitation was only 10 per cent for Monday night and Tuesday.

Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. weather observer, measured .11 of an inch of actual precipitation. Stookey also said that a low of 15 degrees and a high of 31 degrees were recorded in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Monday.

An analysis of the 1776 Army diet made recently in the newsletter "AMA Update" included this daily description:

One pound of fresh beef or one pound of salt fish; three-fourths of a pound of pork or 20 ounces of salt beef; one pound of bread and one pint of milk.

The AMA said that in contrast to 11 cents per day for enlisted soldiers, officers in the Continental Army were allowed 33 cents and Washington him self $5.28 daily.

"And just think, people in 1776 complained about high prices," the newsletter said. "General Washington, we hasten to add, was noted throughout the Revolutionary War for his elegant standard of living."

The AMA quoted one of its own food and nutrition authorities, Dr. Phil White, who said he guessed soldiers in 1776 "made lousy sentries and their combat wounds probably didn't heal quickly or well" because of the fare.

"Also, I expect they had bad teeth," Dr. White said. "That's because their daily ration was short on Vitamins A and C. Both very important to good health."

7 sought in Hearst kidnaping

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The FBI says it now seeks seven persons in the kidnaping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and is "running out any number of leads" outside the state.

But the weekend passed without further word from the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA), which said in a letter Thursday it was holding 19-year-old Miss Hearst.

At the Hearst mansion in Hillsborough, a family spokesman said Sunday was "a day of nothingness" for the victim's distraught parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst. The father is president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

"Everybody is clinging to the hope that Monday's mail will bring something," said Jack Cooke, a vice president of Hearst Corp.

The SLA letter said Miss Hearst would "be maintained in adequate physical and mental condition and unharmed" if the kidnapers' conditions are met.

"Should any attempt be made by authorities to rescue the prisoner or to arrest or harm any SLA elements, the prisoner is to be executed," the letter said. It promised that "Further communications will follow."

FBI Agent Thomas Druken said Sunday that in addition to five persons previously sought, authorities are looking for a white couple in their 20s. The two were parked in a dark, late model Volkswagen sedan near the Berkeley apartment from which Miss Hearst was carried last Monday night, screaming for help.

Metzenbaum raps shift in gasoline

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, Sunday labeled the decision by the Federal Energy Office to cutback Ohio's gasoline allocation as arbitrary.

"It will result in needless shortages for Ohio motorists," Metzenbaum said. "A decision by a bureaucrat on an arbitrary basis without any standards and without any explanation to the public is worse than no decision at all."

Metzenbaum was referring to John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the energy office, when he used the term bureaucrat and said he intends to send a telegram today asking Sawhill for an explanation.

Over the weekend, Sawhill announced the cutback to Ohio and nine other states so the allocations of 12 other states could be increased.

"In the interior committee hearings I have been attending on the energy shortage it has become more and more evident that neither the government

Board to act on Navy trip

The Washington C.H. Board of Education will meet in special session Tuesday morning to consider a request from Commander Robert Self, instructor for the Junior Naval ROTC at Washington Senior High School.

The board has been asked to approve a trip to the Naval Air Base at Pensacola, Fla. Approximately 27 students would leave from Lockbourne Air Force Base, Columbus, Monday (a school holiday) to fly to Pensacola for four days. They would return for classes Friday.

The request is for approval only; the government would provide the transportation and students would pay a nominal fee for their meals.

Police dog aids
drug discovery

EUCLID, Ohio (AP)—A police dog, named Heidi, helped the Euclid police and the Lake Geauga narcotics unit uncover an estimated $60,000 worth of drugs and stolen property in a high rise apartment complex here.

Det. Robert H. Payne, of Euclid, who headed the weekend raid, said quantities of hashish and marijuana valued at about $55,000 and stolen items such as telephones and weapons valued at about $5,000 were found in an apartment in the Watergate Apartments on Lake Shore Blvd.

Police said Stanley Rush, 24, and Thelma Harvell, 32, both of Cleveland, were charged with possession of marijuana and released in $1,000 bond.

Season tickets to Redskins games linked to new Law?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic congressman says he arranged for colleagues and congressional aides to buy at least 35 scarce season tickets to Washington Redskins football games last fall after helping win passage of a bill to increase the seating capacity at Redskins the Public Works Committee.

In the interview, Gray complained that the seats were bad and said the Redskins, after promising a "fair and equitable distribution," had ignored his repeated requests for 250 seats.

Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams said he could not recall "any demand of that kind ever being made" by Gray or anyone on his staff.

He said that if priority was given to any congressman "it was in isolated cases, I suppose."

"It's entirely possible that there's as many as 40 or 60 that were sold, and I underscore sold, to members of Congress," Williams said. "I really don't know that and I really don't have an interest in finding out that."

But, he went on, "as far as making a block of tickets available to Congressman Gray, that is just ridiculous."

Redskins games regularly are sold out and there is little turnover in season tickets. There are more than 9,000 persons on a waiting list for such seats and during House debate last summer one congressman said thousands more would sign up if they had any hope tickets would become available.

PTO plans skating party and carnival

MADISON MILLS — The Madison Mills Parent-Teacher Organization has set March 12 as the date for the club skating party. The group also is making plans for the Madison Mills Carnival March 23.

In connection with the carnival, it was decided that tickets for a savings bonds promotion will go on sale soon. Tickets for the carnival games and booths will be 15 cents, with advance sale tickets to be sold for 10 cents. There will be a sale of craft items as in past years.

The skating party, to be held at the Roller Haven, will begin at 7 p.m. March 12 and will end approximately 10 p.m.

The March meeting of the P.T.O. will be held March 18. The later date for the monthly meeting will allow parents and friends to view the children's Science Fair projects.

Plans are being made for the April meeting to include a short play presented by P.T.O. members. Mrs. Lena Mowery will direct the program.

Child car seats too weak

Consumers Union has come forward with a chilling message of particular interest to parents of toddlers. "Under present federal safety standards," this independent testing laboratory says in a report on a recent test series, "you cannot buy a car safety restraint for a small child with any assurance that it will protect him from serious injury or death in a crash."

The conclusion that adequate equipment for this purpose is unobtainable would be disturbing enough in any case. It is all the more so because of the indication that standards adopted by the government are not stringent enough to afford the protection needed, though this is the point of having standards. Four of the restraints tested meet federal requirements but were judged unacceptable.

Two pertinent considerations come to mind. One is that this is not the first time the inadequacy of car safety restraints for children has been brought to attention. The question has often been raised in recent years, and in 1972 the Consumer Union reported that 12 of 17 restraint systems it tested failed to do an adequate protective job.

Another important consideration is that this is very far from being an academic matter: there is a heavy traffic accident death toll among children under four years of age. About 12,000 in this category are killed annually. Some 75,000 are injured in crashes. The need for better restraints cannot be denied.

Happily, the government intends to take action. In March the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration will propose higher testing standards and procedures. These should be made effective as soon as possible, so that parents will be able to assure their toddlers adequate protection.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Depression, or just more inflation?

I recently sat in on a Liberty Fund seminar on gold in Indianapolis. The participants were all free enterprisers who believe in relatively unfettered international exchange. They all agreed it is the "market" that establishes a viable currency, not the politicians who may, for one reason or another, try to force government-supported fiat money on the people as legal tender.

None of the participants could be called a gold "mystic." The members of the group merely concurred in thinking that, historically, gold has become the most acceptable international money for reasons connected with its durability and its "precious" metal attributes. Like Mount Everest, it is "there." It outlasts anything else, even silver (which has suffered as a money because it also happens to be an industrial commodity).

The participants in the seminar didn't waste any time fighting over the role of government in industry. They were, to a man, anti-socialist, anti-interventionist. So one might have expected them to come to some agreement about the world economic picture.

THE ASTOUNDING thing, however, was that the seminar became a forum in which two completely opposite prophecies were espoused. Some of those present, men with long experience in international banking, argued that we are now in the early stages of a tremendous world-wide deflation that will see nations as well as individuals forced into either technical or real bankruptcy.

Other predicted more and greater inflation which would, in effect, enable technically bankrupt institutions to pay off their creditors in paper that is backed only by the willingness of future taxpayers to allow themselves to be skinned ad infinitum.

With the experts disagreeing on the course of future events, what is the man in the middle to believe? I came away from the seminar with a sense that the immediate future is absolutely unpredictable. Everything depends on what a number of countries decide to do about so many things that there is no guessing how the cat will jump.

A member of Congress who happened to be sitting in on the discussion told something about the activities of Caspar Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Speaking ostensibly for the White House, Mr. Weinberger has been urging that a new Family Assistance Program be substituted for our present system of welfare payments.

He would, in effect, institute a guaranteed annual family income that would place a floor under everybody. At $1,000 an individual, this would come to $4,000 per average family — a figure made familiar to the voters during the last Presidential election by Sen. McGovern.

To make the Family Assistance Plan ("Big FAP" as distinct from the "Little FAP" proposed by the first Nixon Administration) acceptable to conservatives, Weinberger would discontinue such things as the Food Stamp program. He would also turn over many ordinary relief programs to the states and their constituent localities.

If Caspar Weinberger should have his way, and if every U.S. family is to be guaranteed a basic living, would it be possible to deflate the economy?

Wouldn't Big FAP merely underwrite a bigger inflation than we have now?

With a family guarantee of $4,000 a year, everybody would be living in clover should a period of falling prices — a big deflation — ensue. But could there be falling prices with families bidding for a diminishing output of goods and services? Wouldn't the "market," under FAP, tend quite the other way, making things more difficult for the young to pay the accompanying Treasury deficits in the future?

THE "DEFLATION-NOW" theorists fall back on the argument that all the Western governments, faced with deficits, would be "pushing on string" to keep inflation going. Rising interest rates, so the deflationists argued, would tend to limit future production. There would simply be more bankruptcies and less for everybody.

The one thing the two sides were agreed on is that you can't go wrong on gold, provided you get it at the right price. But where is that "right" price? The "market" will tell, but the market is vulnerable to government decisions.

In any event, it is the underdeveloped world that is going to take it on the chin. The Arab countries have guaranteed some $500 million in relief and support projects to 19 African states. But, without aid, the annual balance of payment deficits of these states will, given the high price of oil, come to some $2 billion.

The developed nations of the West, faced with paying through the nose for their own energy needs, will hardly be in a position to fill the void with old-fashioned foreign aid.

to that $1.5 billion.

It will undoubtedly flow into worthwhile projects, but at the same time it will free other funds that will be used to buy oil at the present inflated price. In other words, we might as well simply hand the funds directly to the Arab oil syndicate (OPEC).

The nations of the Third World have been having a grand time voting against the United States and Israel at the United Nations. Most of the black African countries have broken off diplomatic relations with Israel and expressed their solidarity with the Arab and the Palestinian guerrilla cause, and it is fair to say that anti-Americanism is their stock in trade.

Obviously I don't particularly like this behavior pattern, but, having no colonial ambitions, I accept their right to kick us around. However, I don't see any reason that we should subsidize their antics.

This strikes me as particularly cogent in the present historical context. The oil nations are presently running up huge cash assets while the United States is suffering from a budgetary deficit. Why should we go $1.5 billion farther in the hole when President McNamara of the World Bank and his Third World clients need only to turn to the generous Arabs?

For example, they might suggest to OPEC that the oil producers establish a two-tier price system: one for the wealthy, industrialized nations, and the other for those with a per capita annual income of less than $375.

I WOULD NOT venture to predict the outcome of this initiative, but in equitable terms one would hope the Arabs would be forthcoming. The Third World, on its own steam, has rushed to embrace the "anti-imperialist, anti-Zionist cause." Surely their Arab friends will now be prepared to aid them in their struggle against poverty. A contribution of $1.5 billion would be petty cash for Col. Qaddafi, the Iraqis or Saudi Arabia.

If the Arabs refused to reward their allies for standing solidly against American and Israeli "imperialism," it would be most regrettable. But then at some point in the life of every nation, and for that matter every individual, the facts of life have to intrude on egocentric illusions.

In short, while I wish them luck with the Arabs, maybe the time has come for the Third World to learn that you have to pay for an education.

Financial revenues are distributed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than $46,000 in taxes on financial institutions and securities dealers was distributed today to 41 counties, state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced.

Earlier, the auditor said he distributed $75 million to local government funds in the 88 Ohio counties.

Election set in Cincy's 1st District

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A pair of Republican candidates are matched in a primary election Tuesday which could end up in a March 5 showdown between two former Cincinnati mayors seeking U.S. Rep. William Keating's vacant congressional seat.

Vying in a runoff of the First Congressional District are Willis Gradison Jr. and William Flax.

The winner goes against Democrat Thomas Luken, who is unopposed.

Gradison and Luken are former mayors and have spent time voting similarly as City Councilmen.

Gradison has received his party's endorsement.

A Gradison-Luken faceoff would set up an interesting political duel in a traditionally Republican stronghold which has elected only two Democrats from the district in the past 50 years.

The district, comprised of the eastern half of Cincinnati and Hamilton County, has produced some of Ohio's biggest political names.

U.S. Senators Robert A. Taft and Robert Taft Jr., began their careers in the district. Nicholas Longworth went on to become Speaker of the U.S. House.

NOTICE OF PETITION FOR ANNEXATION
This is hereby given, that there was filed with the Board of County Commissioners of Fayette County, Ohio, on the 21st day of January, 1974, a petition signed by the owner of the real estate in the hereinabove described territory praying that said territory be annexed to the City of Washington in the manner provided by law. The territory so sought to be annexed is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the intersection of the center line of S.R. 41 and the center line of Gibbs Avenue, V.M.S. 843, Union Township, Fayette County, Ohio, said point also being a corner to the Corporation Line of the City of Washington; thence N. 34 degrees 50' W. along the center line of S.R. 41 and the aforesaid corporation line a distance of 366.04 feet to a point in the intersection of the center line of S.R. 41 and the center line of Earl Avenue; thence N. 48 degrees 50' E. along the center line of Earl Avenue; thence a distance of 98.31 feet to a point; thence S. 41 degrees 10' E. along the Southwest line of Lots 409, 408 and 407 of the Washington Improvement Company's Addition (Plat Book A, Page 427) and the aforesaid corporation line a distance of 365.00 feet to a point in the center line of Gibbs Avenue, and a corner to the aforesaid corporation line; thence S. 48 degrees 50' W. along the center line of Gibbs Avenue and aforesaid corporation line a distance of 125.96 feet to the place of beginning, containing 0.94 acres.

The above description is all of Lots 407, 408 and 409 of the Washington Improvement Company's Addition and a part of S.R. 41, Gibbs Avenue and Earl Avenue.

The above description prepared by Richard Wm. Keister, Registered Surveyor No. 5444 on January 21, 1974.

The undersigned is named in said petition as the agent of the petitioners in accordance with law; and such petition contains a full description and an accurate plat of the territory sought to be annexed, and such petition states that there is one owner of real estate in said territory.

The said Board of County Commissioners has fixed the 25th day of March, 1974, at 2:00 p.m., as the time for the hearing on the aforesaid petition, said hearing to be held at the Office of the Fayette County Board of County Commissioners, Fayette County Court House, Washington C.H., Ohio.

Snow removal keeps road workers busy

Snow removal occupied work crews from the city street, state highway and county road departments Monday morning.

Officials from all three departments were concerned with clearing streets and roadways before preparing for other tasks this week.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said three city workers were plowing snow and spreading salt through most of the night Sunday in an effort to clear streets in Washington C.H.

Duncan said the crews launched their clearing operations at 6 p.m. Sunday and worked until midnight before returning at 4 a.m. Monday.

Weather permitting, the city street workers will be clearing brush from the banks of Paint Creek and from alleys throughout Washington C.H. Duncan said several miscellaneous jobs are also scheduled.

CREWS from the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County started plowing and spreading salt at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, according to Gene Fitzpatrick, superintendent.

Fitzpatrick listed several other jobs for his crews this week when weather permits. He said they will be sealing cracks on U.S. 62-S and on Ohio 734, west of Jeffersonville, in addition to repairing fences and guardrails on I-71, cutting trees and patching roads in various locations throughout the county.

Trash crews will be in operation, and three workers are still manning an electricade (flashing arrow) at the I-71-U.S. 35 interchange area where a crane collided with an overpass some time ago.

Crews from the Fayette County highway garage were occupied with snow removal starting at 6:30 a.m. Monday.

Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer, said the county crew will also be working on a drainage project on Waterloo Road and widening a bridge on Davids Road in Jasper Township.

Celeste boosts

Ohio education

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Richard F. Celeste, D-5 Cleveland, said Saturday one of the top priorities of state government is financing higher education.

Celeste, who is a candidate for lieutenant governor, said there is a need for major reassessment of how higher education is funded.

He said he opposed higher admission fees because studies showed that such increases reduced the number of students attending state schools.

Celeste addressed a student government conference at Miami University.

Health care pros, cons are heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's health plan would bring medical services up to higher standards all over the nation without requiring new taxes, says Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

On the other hand, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has introduced a health bill of his own in Congress, said the administration's proposal does not "guarantee quality health as a matter of right to all Americans."

"There have to be adjustments in these areas: In the delivery, in the guaranteeing of good quality health at a price people can afford to pay," said the Massachusetts Democrat.

Both Weinberger and Kennedy, in separate interviews Sunday, expressed confidence that some form of health insurance legislation would be passed this year.

Weinberger spoke on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" while Kennedy was questioned on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation."

The HEW secretary denied that Nixon's plan would mean billions in windfall profits for insurance companies. But, he added: "If it results in a reasonable profit that doesn't disturb me a bit."

He said competition and federal and state regulation would prevent undue profits to the private insurance firms that would handle the vastly increased health coverage.

The estimated cost to individuals would be from $125 to $140 a year, said Weinberger, "and we hope it would be less eventually because of competition."

The Nixon plan is based principally on private insurance purchased by employers and employees. No individual or family, after paying a share of the premium, would be liable for more than $1,500 a year for the broad range of health services covered by the policy.

Ohio Perspective

Deafness mistaken for retardation

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Donald has spent the last 25 years of his life trying to disprove his nickname, "Big Dummy."

At the age of 40, he has finally succeeded.

Donald is a former patient at Orient State Institute for the mentally retarded. A probate court sent him there when he was 15.

He is now a resident of a special group home in Columbus, where he is learning new skills and is on the verge of his first real job.

When Donald first arrived at Orient he was banished to Farmview, a prison-like cottage, said Dr. Albert Soforenko, institute administrator.

"He was a large-framed fellow, weighing about 240 pounds," Soforenko said. "He was a deaf mute at the time, and was something to be reckoned with on the streets in his hometown when he made guttural sounds. He reflected the same thing to the staff."

"He was placed at Farmview to do heavy work and when he wasn't working he was locked up. He struck out at the staff and the staff would strike back in protection."

Soforenko said, "That kind of an environment becomes a vicious cycle. It does not allow for growth, and it almost becomes a matter of survival of the fittest."

Soforenko and the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Hygiene ended the vicious cycle last August when Farmview was closed.

Donald moved to a smaller cottage where he had privileges the freedom to come and go during the day. He has no problem, the institute administrator said.

Soon after the transfer, Soforenko said, Donald was re-evaluated by the speech department at Orient.

"We found that he suffered from normal deafness," Soforenko said. "He reflected retardation only because he had not been exposed to varied experiences in the last 25 years. The retardation was not inherent in Donald."

On Jan. 9, Donald moved to a special home in Columbus, where he is learning sign language and lip reading.

After mastering communication skills, the Ohio Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation will try to find him employment, possibly as a printer.

"Donald is quite a symbol of success," said Soforenko. "He is adjusting very well on his first time out of the institution in 25 years."

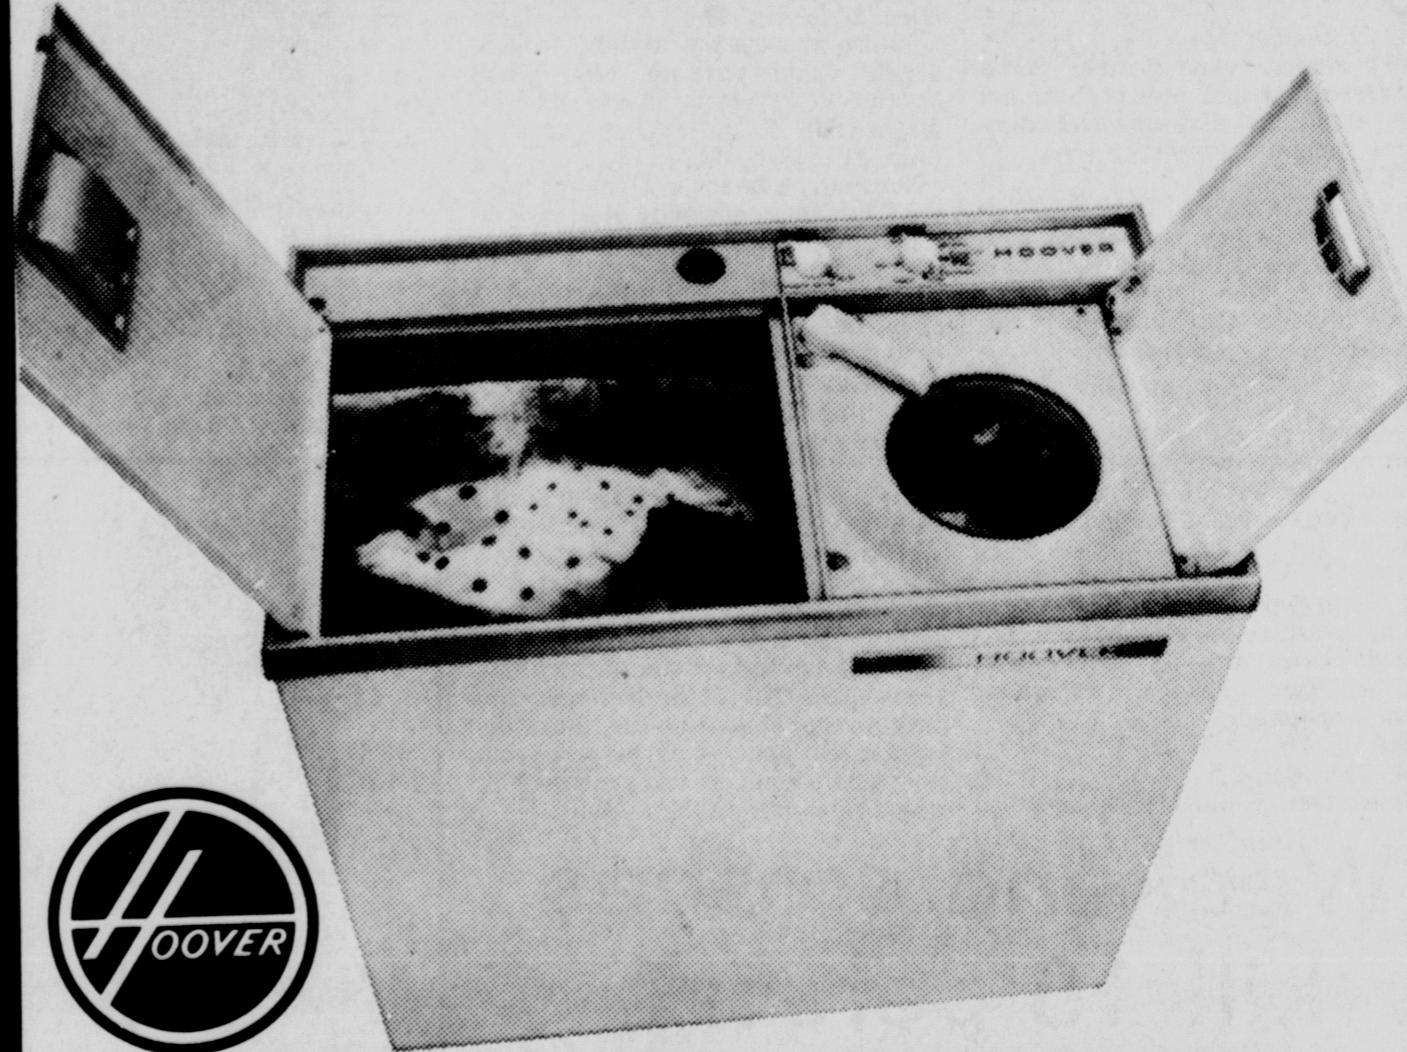

"Hopefully, we have turned him around, and he will make it as a normal deaf persons."

IF YOU'RE GOING TO CALL LONG DISTANCE DURING THE WEEK, WAIT A MINUTE.

You'll save money if you just hold off.

Until 5 P.M.

Because from 5 P.M. to 11 P.M. Monday through Friday, dial-it-yourself rates are low. (Even lower after 11 P.M. all day Saturday, and until 5 P.M. Sunday.)

They're so low you can dial an out-of-state call as far as California and talk a full 10 minutes for no more than $2.60 plus tax.

For example, call Dallas for $2.10. Or San Francisco, $2.60. Or Fort Wayne, $1.60. Or Boston, $2.05. Or Miami, $2.10. For 10 relaxing minutes.

So the next time you go to make a long distance call during the week, wait a minute.

Regents may reverse policy on campus establishment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-year policy which prohibits funding a new campus for higher education within 30 miles of an existing institution may be reversed this week. The Ohio Board of Regents is voting on the establishment of a branch campus in Geauga County.

A resolution to spend $1.5 million to construct a Kent State University facility at Burton will be presented by university officials at the board's session Friday in Cincinnati.

For the past three years the board has opposed the proposal because four other campuses exist within 30 miles of the blueprinted branch.

But two sessions of the Ohio General Assembly have appropriated money for the project prompted by Sen. Robert Stockdale, R-31 Kent.

Vice Chancellor William Coulter says the regents seem "to have run out of authority."

"To continue the roadblock is beyond the regents' general authority," he said.

The regents opposed the allocation of funds a second time, but were ignored.

The chancellor said he agrees with the board's rule that campuses to be located more than 30 miles apart, because a student can commute less than that distance.

In the area of the planned branch, Lakeland Community College, Cuyahoga Community College, the University of Akron and Kent State all have campuses.

The board also plans to hear a proposal by the Rio Grande Community College Board of Trustees to make the institution state-supported.

That project has also been on the drawing board for three years.

The regents authorized the board to make plans, but turned down early proposals because of financial concerns as a result of the sparse population in the southern Ohio area.

Trustees are reportedly considering an operating levy to help support the school.

500 Republicans schedule meeting

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 500 Republican leaders from 13 states including Ohio will attend a conference in Chicago next month.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan will appear at the March 29-30 session, planners said.

Professional people assist in government program

Hi-Y 'mock trials' Saturday

Can a woman shopper, surprised by a noise which causes her to fall, file suit against a department store for injuries and can a person collect $85,000 for claimed injuries as the result of being struck by an auto?

These questions are among those which jurors will decide Saturday when Judge Evelyn W. Coffman presides over this year's Hi-Y Youth in Government mock trials in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

As in past years, the Washington Senior High School Hi-Y Club is again participating in the Ohio Youth in Government program. The purpose of the program is to acquaint students with state government by actually going through the procedures in mock trials.

Comprised of the legislative and judicial programs, the event is sponsored by the Ohio YMCA. For the judicial program, members of the Hi-Y Club begin in the fall to prepare cases, working with legal advisors in Washington C.H. During February, participating clubs conduct their local trials, the result of which are then appealed before a mock Supreme Court session in Columbus in April.

"Youth attorneys" must review the cases, prepare briefs and contentions, locate witnesses and present their cases before a "jury" and judge.

THE STUDENT attorneys will be permitted to have adult legal advisors to assist them in preparing their cases and the Common Pleas Court room will be used with Judge Coffman presiding.

Two cases will be heard Saturday. Hi-Y youth attorneys Jim Vess and Doug Wheat will be seeking a monetary judgement for their client from a local department store. Defending the business will be Hi-Y attorneys Rory Souther and Brian Cook. The legal advisor for Vess and Wheat is James A. Kiger, Fayette County prosecuting attorney, and attorney Robert Simpson is advising Souther and Cook.

The second case, a civil suit involving a woman pedestrian and the driver of a car which reportedly struck her, will find Hi-Y attorneys David Mustine and Dewey Foster defending the motorist as Hi-Y lawyers Garth Cox and Tim O'Flynn represent the plaintiff. Attorney Otis Hess Jr. is the legal advisor for Mustine and Foster. Cox and O'Flynn will be advised by attorney John Bryan.

Witnesses and jurors for the mock trials are Washington Senior High School students, mostly Hi-Y Club members.

Coordinating the program is George Shoemaker, a WSHS faculty member who is co-advisor of the WSHS Hi-Y Club. Additionally, Shoemaker is the judicial coordinator for the statewide

Youth in Government program this year.

BOTH Shoemaker and Austin Crusie, the other club advisor, feel that the key to the program is the cooperation and interest expressed by Judge Coffman, R.B. (Bud) Tharp, court bailiff, and the Washington C.H. attorneys, all of whom donate their time and professional talents to the project.

"It's very gratifying to see these young men work with the adults of our community to learn about Ohio's judicial processes. As a result I feel they can gain an appreciation and respect for local, state and national law," Crusie said.

After Saturday's mock trials, the losing student attorneys will prepare appeals to be presented before a mock Supreme Court session in Columbus this spring. The young lawyers will serve a turn as Supreme Court justices

Extend deadline for candidates' finance reports

The Rev. Dr. Robert A. Raines, chairman of the Ohio Ethics Commission, has notified all election boards that the commission — at its initial meeting of the year — extended the filing date for financial disclosure statements for all candidates seeking election in the May primary election to March 1.

Dr. Raines said the disclosure forms were approved at the commission's meeting Jan. 29, and presently are in the hands of the printer. These forms should be distributed to boards of elections throughout Ohio this week, he said.

He advised that submission of the completed financial disclosure statement to the commission on or before March 1 will be deemed as compliance with the law.

All prospective candidates for the May primary in Fayette County must check with the Fayette County Board of Election on or about Tuesday to obtain the forms.

The form lists space for the sources of all income, although the candidate does not have to list the amount of income — only its source.

to hear appeals from other Ohio Hi-Y Club mock trials.

The Hi-Y Club members will be using the actual Supreme Court chambers and courtroom for their appeal trials, a privilege only the YMCA Youth in Government program enjoys.

The mock trials which will be held in Fayette County Common Pleas Court are open to the public. Crusie said the first case is scheduled for 8 a.m. Saturday and the second case is slated for 1 p.m.

Creighton tops Marquette

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Marquette Coach Al McGuire has been saying all season his Marquette team was just not as good as everyone thought it was.

Creighton proved him right Saturday, beating the sixth-ranked Warriors 75-69.

"I think they're a better club," Marquette Coach Al McGuire said about Creighton, which handed the Warriors, 18-3, only their second home loss in 101 contests. "I personally don't think we're that good a ball club. I've been saying that all year. We have talent if we ever put it together ... but we haven't."

Doug Brookins scored 25 for Creighton, now 18-4, which rallied from an early 12-point deficit. Marquette's season-leading scorer Bo Ellis fouled out in the last five minutes.

Other than foul trouble, McGuire said, "I thought we played pretty well personally. That's actually the best we've shot in weeks, I think, but we ran into a great team that is excellently coached."

In other Top Ten games, top-ranked UCLA defeated Oregon State 80-75; No. 2 North Carolina State ripped Furman 111-91; No. 3 Notre Dame trampled Duke 87-68; No. 4 North Carolina beat Georgia Tech 112-70; fifth-ranked Vanderbilt pulled away from Mississippi State 60-59; No. 7 Maryland walloped George Washington 92-71; No. 8 Alabama trounced Tennessee 73-54; No. 9 Long Beach downed San Diego State 98-72 and No. 10 Pittsburgh continued on its winning way with a 71-56 victory over Syracuse.

With 12 minutes to play and a 53-40 advantage, UCLA looked like a shoo-in victor. But Oregon State made the Bruins clamor again to defend their top spot in the rankings, putting on an 11-2 scoring burst to cut the margin to four points.

Bill Walton was the Bruins' offensive leader, scoring 31 points and grabbing 19 rebounds.

David Thompson scored 17 of his 26 points in the second half when North Carolina State pulled away from Furman for its 16th straight victory. State shot 55 per cent in the first game of a doubleheader at Charlotte, N.C., as Tommy Burleson added 18 points and little Monte Towe 17.

In the second game of that doubleheader, North Carolina stung Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets with a 20-2 burst in the first seven minutes of the game, hitting 60.9 per cent against Tech's 35 per cent.

Adrian Dantley, who collapsed from dehydration two weeks ago, showed no ill effects as he scored 27 points for Notre Dame, which opened a 12-point halftime margin against Duke and then coasted to victory.

Jan van Breda Kolff sank a jumper in the final seconds to provide fifth-ranked Vanderbilt with their margin of victory.

Tom McMillen and John Lucas combined for 44 points as Maryland went far ahead in the second half with a 24-4 spurt.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell, who ordered a Sunday practice last week because of a letdown on defense, said the final 20 minutes Saturday was "one of our better games defensively."

Alabama hit 18 of 39 field goals in the first half and T.R. Dunn supplied the 'Bama punch in the second half with 13 points.

Glenn McDonald scored 23 points for Long Beach, now 18-2. Clifford Ponder followed with 18 for the 49ers, who were scoreless from the floor for the first five minutes before hitting 17 points in the next five.

Billy Knight scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half to beat Pitt capture its 19th straight game. Knight also had 19 rebounds.

Marvin Barnes scored 23 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked eight shots to lead 11th-ranked Providence to a 91-60 victory over Seton Hall. Kevin Stacum added 18 points for the Friars.

Indiana, No. 12, scored more than 100 points for the first time in Coach Bob Knight's three-year tenure, blasting Illinois 107-67.

Sophomore Alexander English and senior Brian Winters scored 40 points between them to lead 13th-ranked South Carolina past Dayton 81-68.

Southern California, No. 14, came back from a 20-20 tie at halftime to defeat Oregon 59-53 while Ulysses Bridgeman scored 19 and Allen Murphy 18 to lead 15th-rated Louisville 81-62 over West Texas State.

Michigan bested the Ohio State 91-68, with Campy Russell scoring 22 points for the 16th-ranked Wolverines.

Danny Knight scored 34 points to pace No. 17 Kansas to a 80-71 victory over Oklahoma; Texas-El Paso, No. 18, lost to Brigham Young 56-54 and No. 19 Oral Roberts, with Sam McCants breaking the game open early, defeated Pepperdine 98-71.

Larry Fogle, the national's leading scorer, had himself a field day, scoring 55 points in Canisius' 129-109 victory over St. Peter's N.J.

WOODS SETS WORLD RECORD — George Woods waves his arms after setting the world record for the shot put during the 1974 Indoor Games in Los Angeles with a mark of 72-feet, 2 3/4 inches. The distance is greater than the old indoor record and bests the outdoor mark also.

Toledo Rockets nip OU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo's Cinderella Rockets now are the team to beat for the Mid-American Conference basketball title after another harrowing comeback.

"We're in a position to decide our own destiny. We can do it," said Toledo Coach Bob Nichols Saturday night after the Rockets snapped a first place tie with Ohio University, nipping the Bobcats 80-79.

That gave Toledo, the preseason last place selection of writers, a 6-2 conference record. The Rockets are one game ahead of Ohio and Bowling Green with four MAC games to play, three on the road.

Cornelius Cash led Bowling Green past Miami of Ohio 64-60, all but knocking the defending champions out of title contention. Miami is 4-4.

Dan Roundfield's layup with 58 seconds left forced an overtime and Central Michigan, 3-4, went on to clip Kent State 83-79. The loss dropped the Flashes deeper into last place with a 1-7 mark.

In nonconference activity, Mike Steele's 21 points led Western Michigan to its seventh straight home victory, 78-55 over Eastern Michigan, and Northern Illinois edged Ball State, 75-74.

Toledo trailed Ohio 44-30 at halftime, then switched to high gear in the second half. The Rockets scored 50 points and hit 60 per cent of their shots in that span.

"There was no great strategy involved," Nichols said. "It was just a case of playing harder. We got the ball down the court awfully fast and went to the basket hard."

Nichols isn't surprised the Rockets ride in first place at this late stage.

"We coaches are half nuts," he said. "We think we can win them all before the season begins."

Larry Cole's basket with 18 seconds left provided Toledo with its margin. Cole wound up with 17 points and Jim Kindle, his guard running mate, had 24.

Walter Luckett fired in 23 Ohio points. Cash scored 11 of his 19 points in the last nine minutes and 6-foot-8 junior said of his spire, "I just wanted to win the game, that's all."

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley benched Cash for poor first half play. "When I sent him back," Haley said, "he was just fantastic."

Darrell Hedric, Miami's mentor, didn't rule his team out of the race yet, but said, "We have a tough road to go and four losses make it even tougher."

Brian Pouquette, a 6-8 freshman, paced Central Michigan with 19 points and Roundfield finished with 18. Kent's Tom Brabson pumped in 23 points and Brad Robinson had a career high 26 rebounds for the Flashes.

Meanwhile, Ohio State dropped deeper in the Big Ten basement with a 91-68 thumping at Michigan and Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor said, "We're not even spoilers."

Bill Andreas scored 20 points for the Buckeyes, 6-12 overall and 1-7 in the Big Ten. Ohio State returns home to face Michigan State tonight.

Lloyd Batts hit 20 points, seven of them in a 40-second stretch in the last two minutes, to lead Cincinnati, 16-5, past

Iggy Katona wins race at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Step aside George Blanda, Sam Snead and Hank Aaron. Iggy Katona wants to move to the head of the class in the sports world's "Over the Hill Gang."

And David Pearson will soon be eligible for membership, though it's the last thing he wants to think about.

Katona and Pearson may even want a special niche in the oldster's club. They are race drivers, and good ones, in what is considered the most dangerous of all bit-time sports.

Katona, who admits to 58 summers, drove a Dodge to victory Sunday in the first event of Daytona's 16th "Speed Weeks" festival, a 200-mile race for short track drivers aligned with the Midwest-based Auto Racing Club of America.

Pearson, who will be 40 before another Christmas arrives, powered a Mercury to a speed of 185.017 miles per hour to capture the front row pole position for next Sunday's $200,000 Daytona 500 stock car race for Grand National drivers of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Richard Petty, who like Pearson is a $1 million career prize money winner, mailed the other front row spot with a speed of 183.176 mph. At 36, Petty is a few years away from membership in anything except clubs for the extremely wealthy.

Katona, who started racing in 1935, posted an average speed of 145.044 m.p.h. in nipping Ron Hutcherson 31, of Keokuk, Iowa, by five car lengths.

It was his third victory at Daytona Beach and, he figures, his 321st triumph in competition.

Third place went to Earl Ross of Ailsa Craig, Ont., in a Chevrolet; fourth to Paul Feidner of Richfield, Wis., in a Dodge; and fifth to Jim Tobin of Hudson, Ill., also in a Dodge.

Hutcherson, who drove a Mercury, and Katona and Ross were the big leaders. But it was Katona who ripped by his two chief rivals going down Daytona International Speedway's 3,010-foot backstretch and gained the lead for good with four laps remaining.

Pearson and Petty, who together have won seven NASCAR Grand National racing titles, now have exclusive rights to the front row for the Daytona 500, which because of the energy crisis will be run at 450 miles this year.

Thirty-six other Grand National entries made qualifying runs Sunday, and their speeds will be used for lineup purposes in two 112.5-mile elimination races Thursday.

New Vitamin "E" Plus "C" Diet Gives Fast Weight Loss

LOS ANGELES (Special) — New scientific discoveries have now produced a Vitamin E Plus "C" diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Very Hi-Potency vitamin "E" Plus "C" tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new "E" + "C" DIET AVAILABLE To get a copy of this highly successful diet and "E" Plus "C" Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to: "Diet" 309 N.Kings Rd., Los Angeles, CA 90048 money-back guarantee if not satisfied). Tournament talk

The drawing for the Southeastern AA Sectional basketball tournament was held Sunday at Unioto high school with Washington C.H. placing as the No. 1-seeded team.

The South Central Ohio League leader received the honors on the basis of its 13-3 record. Hillsboro was picked as the second seeded team with a 9-8 overall record.

Unioto high school will be the site of all the sectional games and all games will have a starting time of 7:30 p.m. The seating capacity of the gym is 1600 and all seats will sell for $1.50 with no reserved seats being sold.

The first game is Feb. 2 between Oak Hill (7-9) facing Jackson (5-10). The second match will post Greenfield (7-9) against Wellston (1-14) on Feb. 23. Washington C.H. will play the winner of the Oak Hill-Jackson game Feb. 27. Hillsboro competes against the winner of the Wellston-Greenfield contest Feb. 28.

Finals in the sectional will take place March 2, with the winner going to the District tournament at Rio Grande College.

Michigan smothers OSU

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan isn't going to run away with the Big Ten basketball championship, but the Wolverines have kept up front by running opponents ragged.

Denison College wins Livingston relays

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Denison College piled up 86 points to nudge favored Baldwin-Wallace out of the No. 1 spot in the Livingston Indoor Relays of the Ohio Conference Saturday.

Baldwin-Wallace, which finished with 84, won the final event, the mile relay, but it wasn't enough to overcome the host Denison team.

The other top teams were Mount Union 79, Otterbein 45 and Ohio Wesleyan 25.

1st OSU grid game set at Minnesota

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State opens its Big Ten football schedule with a road game against Minnesota Sept. 14, it was announced.

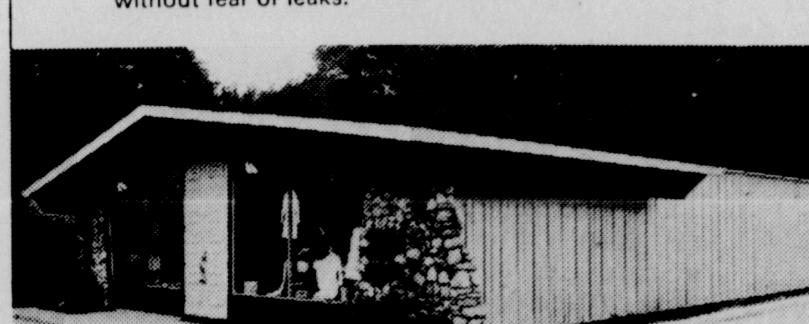

The change from a home game against the Gophers was made recently to conform with league guidelines to permit each Big Ten squad to have four home conference games a season. Athletic Director Ed Weaver said.

"I've never seen an Ohio State team in this position before," moaned Fred Taylor, dean of Big Ten cage coaches, now in his 16th season with the Buckeyes. "We're not even spoilers!"

They'll Do It Every Time

Had a horse, got a buggy

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP) — The gasoline shortage has pushed 70-year-old Fred Addington back to the slower pace of an earlier day. He drives a horse-drawn sulky on daily errands through this suburb of Hartford.

He decided in September to get a buggy to go with his two horses. An Ohio firm delivered it.

On a recent round trip to the bank, motor traffic backed up behind Addington. The trip took him about an hour and 15 minutes.

For colder winter weather, Addington says he has a sleigh and a coonskin coat.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Ecology's Links to Health

When ecology first captured the imagination of the American people, the greatest interest was concentrated on pollution of the air, our watersheds and river streams.

Little concentration was evident on the relationship between pollution and actual health.

Today there is an increased awareness of the methods by which environment affects the physical and emotional health of a community. This new consciousness may have a profound effect on the pressures made to control pollutions in modern environment.

Chronic bronchitis, for example, can lead to emphysema and the debilitation from this dread disease. And crippling bronchitis can often be traced to exposure to occupational hazards.

Noxious gases like sulphur oxides poured into the air by factories can irritate the respiratory system and lead to permanent injury of the lungs.

Thousands of new chemicals are introduced into manufacturing processes whose hazardous wastes are spewed into the environment.

Beryllium, a metal used in rocket fuels and nuclear reactors, can be responsible for a wide variety of lung and simple nervous system diseases.

5 slightly hurt in crashes

Wet, slippery snow over the weekend accounted for most of the 12 accidents reported by sheriff's and police departments. Among the dozen accidents were five minor injuries, but Fayette Memorial Hospital showed no record of the injured coming in for treatment.

POLICE

SUNDAY, 1:23 p.m. — A car owned by Leonard W. Dobbins, 53, of 3117 Ford Rd., was struck in the rear by a car driven by Cecil M. Reid, 78, Mount Sterling, at the Washington Square Plaza parking lot, when the Reid car's brakes failed.

SATURDAY, 11:45 p.m. — A car driven by Robert E. Massie, 17, Bloomingburg, backed into a parked car owned by Sammy G. Beedy, 317 Western Ave., at the Center Pizza parking lot on Elm Street. Minor damage.

6:53 p.m. — A car driven by Willard R. Cordle, 44, Dayton, collided with a car driven by Kile E. Hargis, 34, Rt. 2, in the Fayette Memorial Hospital driveway, off Columbus Avenue. Cordle was charged by police with driving while intoxicated, no operator's license and leaving the scene of an accident.

4:53 p.m. — A minor accident occurred between cars driven by Charlie W. Groves, 52, of 115 E. Oak St., and James H. Stewart, 834 Willard St., at the intersection of Lewis and Gregg streets.

3:45 p.m. — An accident occurred at the intersection of S. Fayette and E. Elm streets involving cars driven by Loutill K. Elzey, 28, of 733 John St., and George A. Palmer, 81, Good Hope. A passenger in the Elzey car, Perry E. Elzey, 3, of 733 John St., showed visible signs of injury, but was not treated. Moderate damage.

2:50 p.m. — An accident between cars driven by Irene Marvin, 47, of 152 Eastview Rd., and Donald O. Hayner, 19, of 430 Second St., on Columbus Avenue, near Willard Street, resulted in Hayner being charged by police for starting without safety. Moderate damage.

11:50 a.m. — A car driven by John D. Morris, 19, Sabina, slid into a stopped auto driven by Nancy Ann Stone, 49, of 517 Third St., while she was waiting for a train on W. Court Street, near Water Street. Morris was charged by police with not maintaining an assured clear distance.

SHERIFF

MONDAY, 6:30 a.m. — A car driven by Peggy Sue Fetherolf, 21, Orient, collided with a telephone pole on Ohio Rt. 41, doing severe damage to her car. She showed visible signs of injury, but was not treated.

11:05 p.m. — A car driven by Ronald Lee Browning, 25, Hamilton, slid off U.S. 35 and into a fence owned by Norman Kingery, 2160 Bogus Rd., doing slight damage to her car.

9:25 p.m. — A car driven by Larry W. Brown, 19, Waverly, also slid off U.S. 35, hitting a culvert and doing severe damage to his car. Brown was slightly hurt, but was not treated.

2:10 p.m. — A car driven by Mary Anne Binzel, 21, of 542 Washington Ave., slid off Ohio Rt. 41 and into a fence owned by Ralph Davison, 1886 Parrott Station Rd., and a telephone pole. Moderate damage.

TIME UNKNOWN — A highway route marker was struck on the CCC-Highway-E by an unidentified vehicle which left the scene.

Commission delays ditch job contract

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners reviewed bids submitted for improvements on a ditch project, but postponed the awarding of a contract during a regular weekly meeting Monday morning.

Commissioners were expected to award the contract for improvements on the Persinger ditch project Monday afternoon after reviewing the two bids submitted and consulting with Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer.

The awarding of the contract was postponed to provide Wagner an opportunity to inspect one of the two bids submitted for the project.

A bid of $6,139.18 was submitted by the Robert Huff Construction Co. A bid submitted by the Marshall McFarland Construction Co., totaled $6,561.09 and exceeded the cost estimate prepared by the county engineer's office. The engineer's cost estimate was $6,444.55.

The Persinger ditch is located on the CCC Highway-W, approximately a mile west of Rattlesnake Creek. It is an open ditch and the petition for improvements was submitted by Dr. J.H. Persinger.

COMMISSIONERS were also scheduled to hold the first public hearing concerning improvements on the Perrill ditch project at 1:30 p.m. Monday in their office. The Perrill ditch is located along Ohio 729, near Jeffersonville and runs in an easterly direction into Sugar Creek about a mile from the U.S. 35-Ohio 729 intersection. It presently is a closed ditch.

Chairman J. Herbert Perrill said the county has received a payment from a state grant for improvements at the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. He said the state grant is being provided from state general revenue sharing funds. The county will provide a $23,000 share for the $57,000 project.

In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 15 reports for the week.

A representative from the Fayette County Board of Commissioners will be attending a meeting of the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission at 10 a.m. Thursday in Columbus.

Oil spill blaze causes $80 loss

An oil stove which spilled fuel and ignited caused approximately $80 damage Monday.

The blaze occurred at the Campbell Estate, 19 Rowe-Ging Rd., occupied by Mrs. Robert Everetts. The flames had been beaten out with a rug by Larry Jones when the firemen arrived.

Smoke and fire damage caused a building loss of $50 and a contents loss of $30.

Speech-Hearing Center operating

CHILLICOTHE — The South Central Ohio Speech and Hearing Center, located in Chillicothe, is now in full operation and serving a seven-county area including Washington C.H.

Individuals of all ages with any type of communication disorder may come to the center to receive diagnostic and therapy services. The center's professional staff consists of two speech pathologists, qualified to perform diagnostic testing and therapy for persons with speech or language problems, and an audiologist, qualified to perform diagnostics and therapy for those with hearing problems. All members of the professional staff hold a master's degree in their field of specialization.

Among the disorders treated are hearing problems, language problems resulting from a stroke, delayed language in children, articulation problems, voice problems, stuttering, cleft palate, laryngectomies and any other problem resulting in a breakdown of communicative abilities.

Individual and group therapy is offered. The center also provides services, on a contractual basis, to other community agencies such as schools, Head Start, hospitals and special clinics.

The center is fully equipped with the most modern diagnostic and therapeutic materials, including a sound-proof suite for hearing testing. Mrs. Ruth Pratt, director, encourages those individuals in the Washington C.H. area needing speech or hearing services to contact the center by calling 773-2679.

Fees are based on the amount of income and number of dependents in the family.

President hears call for courage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon attended church services near the White House and heard a sermon calling for moral courage to face current problems.

The Rev. George M. Doherty, whose sermon was titled "What Happened to Courage," said man should have the courage to face failure.

"We just can't tolerate the idea we might lose. We must win in all our endeavors," he said Sunday.

Nixon drove three blocks to the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church with his wife Pat, daughter and son-in-law Julie and David Eisenhower and Mamie Eisenhower, David's grandmother.

THE PILE GETS BIGGER AND BIGGER — Accumulated snow near a home in Calumet, Mich., almost covers the yard light as icicles hang eight feet long from the eaves. The area is in the snow belt of the Copper Country on the Keweenaw Peninsula, where 59 inches of snow was recorded in January. In 1973 Calumet had 187 inches of the white cover.

Key union joins in British strike

LONDON (AP) — A key union pledged support today for striking British miners in their bid to keep coal stocks from the nation's power stations.

As the nationwide coal strike kept the miners from the pits for their first working day, the general and municipal workers' union instructed its members at the power plants not to handle stocks of coal arriving at the plants.

The union, Britain's third largest, also said that no fuel oil should be handled after existing stocks are exhausted.

Similar instructions already had been issued by the Transport and General Workers' Union and the union of railway engineers.

The coal strike against Prime Minister Edward Heath's anti-inflation ceiling on wage raises started at midnight Saturday. But the miners have not been working overtime and Sundays for three months, so today was their first working day away from the job.

Pickets were ordered to the British Steel Corporation's works at Scunthorpe, in eastern England, to halt deliveries of coking coal.

Other pickets took station at east coast ports to stop the landing of some 500,000 tons of coal from Poland.

Several incidents were reported Sunday. Police had to clear a way for safety maintenance workers through 30 jeering miners at a colliery in Gedling, Nottinghamshire.

Three trucks were overturned when their drivers arrived at a mine in south Wales.

Meanwhile, Heath's Conservative party, in its first campaign manifesto for the general election Heath has called Feb. 28, threatened to end government welfare payments to the wives and children of strikers.

The Conservatives said if reelected, they would amend the social security system to make the unions responsible for the support of strikers' families.

Nixon gambling with inflation?

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In announcing an end to most wage-price controls by May 1, President Nixon is gambling that the price explosion rippling through the U.S. economy will subside by mid-year.

The evidence is not altogether clear

Washington energy meet opens today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger turns his negotiating arts to today's opening of a 13-nation energy conference in an effort to forge a common approach to the worldwide fuel problems.

Kissinger was due to call for cooperation, not confrontation with the oil producing countries when Foreign ministers, finance chiefs and energy experts from the nine-nation European Common Market, Norway, Canada and Japan formally convenes.

However, European and Japanese leaders remain reluctant to agree on any approach that would arouse anger among the oil producing countries that could lead to a cut-off of vital fuel supplies.

Foreign Minister Walter Scheel of Germany, the president of the European community, was selected to explain the cautious position of the common market countries — France, Germany, Britain, the Netherlands, Italy, Denmark, Luxembourg and Belgium.

The most outspoken foe of the U.S. plan of unified approach was French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert who conferred late Sunday with Scheel and Kissinger.

Jobert is an ardent advocate of separate deals by individual countries with the Arab oil sheiks.

He flew to the United States on the heels of a $3-billion agreement by France with Iran. It includes nuclear power plants valued at $1.2 billion, a liquefied natural gas project costing $1 billion and special steel mill projects that will cost $750 million.

In exchange, France will have increased access to Iran's gas and oil. Previous arrangements were made with Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

2 men escape jail at Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Two men removed a wall vent and slipped out of the Greene County Jail early today, the sheriff's office reported.

At large were Michael Moore, 21, of New York, and Willard Humphrey, 24, of Xenia. The sheriff's department said they were to be considered armed and dangerous.

Moore was serving a term for manslaughter in the 1970 killing of a Central State University student, and Humphrey was in jail on an armed robbery conviction.

that the long-awaited relief is at hand, even if the economy slows to near-recession levels as expected.

Some economists already are comparing Nixon's decision to drop mandatory controls in all but the oil and health industries by May 1 with his ill-fated move to Phase 3 controls a year ago.

That switch from mandatory to largely voluntary restraints on wages and prices brought on such a wave of price increases that the dollar was devalued and the stock market shaken.

Eventually, Nixon went back to mandatory controls, freezing prices for 60 days. The second freeze, however, did not meet the same success of the first one in 1971. There were widespread shortages of beef and pork, and prices of other meat went up sharply.

Nixon followed the freeze with a tough wage-price system that squeezed the profits of businesses, yet failed to check the surge of prices.

The President's economic advisers declared wage-price controls counter-productive and all but useless in their annual economic report to Congress a week ago. They said Nixon would continue to decontrol the economy and eventually move to a free market.

The White House strategy is clear. It believes the worst of the price increases are occurring now, largely because the Cost of Living Council is removing controls gradually, industry by industry.

The administration plans to keep the Cost of Living Council as a watchdog over prices and wages. But outside of oil and health services, it would have little power.

Many officials believe, however, that a number of companies that have had their profit margins squeezed by Nixon's controls will now try to make up for lost time by raising prices.

Although the Cost of Living Council is trying to extract promises from industries that they will not raise prices significantly this year, those pledges could go down the drain if the economy changes drastically.

The administration's position is that no standby power to control wages and prices is necessary, and is in fact an inflationary force in itself.

The administration's projection of a mid-year tapering of price increases is not shared widely in Congress and among economists.

Yet, the administration is willing to take its lumps on the price front for several more months, at least.

The President, who in 1971 said his administration would break the back of inflation, told Congress only a week ago that it takes time to do that job.

Thousands returning to work

Truck strike all but over?

By CRAIG AMMERMAN

Associated Press Writer

The often-violent strike by dozens of groups of disorganized independent truck drivers appeared all but over today.

There were several thousand holdouts who continued to insist they would not climb back in their rigs until diesel fuel prices are rolled back. But their numbers did not appear to be nearly enough to cause the economic hardships which resulted in a quick settlement proposal last Thursday in Washington, D.C.

Key federal officials said it looked to them like the strike was over.

Truck traffic climbed to near prestrike levels Sunday and early today, and violence was down sharply.

However, police in Beaumont, Tex., said a driver was showered with glass early today when a bullet slammed through the window of his moving truck. State police in Kentucky said four trucks were hit by bullets Sunday night, causing minor damage.

Earlier in the strike, violence took the lives of two drivers and several were injured.

At least 15,000 of the 100,000 persons laid off at the height of the 11-day shutdown were due back on the job today as many big rigs headed for markets loaded with meat, produce and industrial parts.

There was little doubt that the strike's effects would linger. Spot shortages of some foods were certain to keep meat and produce prices at high levels until supplies can be replenished.

Another certain effect is the six percent surcharge independent drivers will now be getting for their cargoes. Those increases will eventually be picked up by consumers.

Most of the major organizations involved in the strike that won guaranteed supplies of diesel fuel and higher freight rates for the independent drivers urged their men to be back on the job today.

Reports received Sunday from several areas where the strike had its biggest effects indicated many of them were already there.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, the man who got the settlement talks started, said truck traffic had increased in his state by 60 to 75 percent. The Perilis Truck Stop, located in Cordele, Ga., on the main north-south route along the Eastern seaboard, said Sunday night its business was 70 percent of normal.

Truck traffic was reported up in Ohio. In West Virginia, officials said it looked as if truck traffic was nearly normal. Similar reports were received from several Midwest states.

With violence sharply down, the Pennsylvania National Guard was withdrawing its patrols Sunday night. There was to be an end to Guard patrols on highways in the state which suffered what appeared to be the worst violence during the strike, although a 3,000-man force of drivers went up sharply.

Nixon followed the freeze with a tough wage-price system that squeezed the profits of businesses, yet failed to check the surge of prices.

The President's economic advisers declared wage-price controls counter-productive and all but useless in their annual economic report to Congress a week ago. They said Nixon would continue to decontrol the economy and eventually move to a free market.

The White House strategy is clear. It believes the worst of the price increases are occurring now, largely because the Cost of Living Council is removing controls gradually, industry by industry.

Guard contingent was placed on special alert status.

In Pittsburgh, the chairman of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers told his membership Sunday night to resume driving today. William J. Hill, who heads what was believed to be the largest group involved in the shutdown, said the vast majority of steel haulers' locals had overwhelming approved the proposed settlement.

The board of the Ohio Council of Independent truckers voted early today to oust George Rynn as council president, Chairman Lester Salsgiver of Lodi said.

He said the action was taken by four of the seven board members contacted following a meeting Sunday night at Barberton at which council members voted to continue their strike.

Salsgiver said Rynn had not notified him or the council's attorney, J. Leonard Fleet of Hollywood, Fla., of the meeting. He said Fleet spent most of the weekend at Lodi.

Rynn said he had not been notified that the board fired him and claimed that he was still council president. He said if the board fired him he would take the council members into some other organization. He claimed the backing of the majority of the council's 22,000 members.

Salsgiver described the membership meeting as a 'power play' and said, 'This is not the time for George to be making a power play.'

Rynn said he had notified Salsgiver and Fleet of the meeting, which was attended by about 50 truckers at Barberton High School.

Rynn said following the meeting that the council members would 'stay out indefinitely until we get something in writing that tells us what we are going to get and when we are going to get it.'

An official of the council, who asked that he not be identified, said Fleet was fired at the meeting. Salsgiver said today that Fleet was still the council's attorney.

Impeachment probabilities being studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. James L. Holloway III, who steers a middle course on Navy reform, is reported the front runner among candidates to become the next Chief of Naval Operations.

Pentagon sources said they expect President Nixon to act within the next few weeks on nominating a successor to Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., whose four-year terms ends in July.

Meanwhile, there are reports Navy Secretary John W. Warner will resign soon to head the National Bicentennial Administration, preparing for the country's 200th birthday celebration. If so, the Navy would get new civilian and military leadership this year.

The Navy officer corps, split over reform instituted by Zumwalt, is especially concerned about the selection of Zumwalt's successor.

Warner refuses to say whom he is proposing, but he has indicated he believes it is time to slow the pace of reform. Warner has had several conferences with Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, whose recommendation to President Nixon probably will be decisive.

Pentagon sources said Holloway now leads at least four other admirals under consideration.

The south Carolina-born Holloway, currently vice chief of Naval Operations, is described by those who have known him for years as 'an enlightened traditionalist.'

'Holloway would be a middle of the road CNO,' said one source. 'He would not go to either extreme of pushing forward with any revolutionary new changes or coming back all the way. He's smart enough to see the benefits of some of the things Zumwalt did.'

Many of Zumwalt's changes designed to improve Navy life, particularly for enlisted men, won considerable support.

Reports received Sunday from several areas where the strike had its biggest effects indicated many of them were already there.

Some economists already are comparing Nixon's decision to drop mandatory controls in all but the oil and health industries by May 1 with his ill-fated move to Phase 3 controls a year ago.

That switch from mandatory to largely voluntary restraints on wages and prices brought on such a wave of price increases that the dollar was devalued and the stock market shaken.

Eventually, Nixon went back to mandatory controls, freezing prices for 60 days. The second freeze, however, did not meet the same success of the first one in 1971. There were widespread shortages of beef and pork, and prices of other meat went up sharply.

Nixon followed the freeze with a tough wage-price system that squeezed the profits of businesses, yet failed to check the surge of prices.

The President's economic advisers declared wage-price controls counter-productive and all but useless in their annual economic report to Congress a week ago. They said Nixon would continue to decontrol the economy and eventually move to a free market.

The President, who in 1971 said his administration would break the back of inflation, told Congress only a week ago that it takes time to do that job.

He said he has heard that some mayors' courts are operating beyond their authority 'by conducting preliminary hearings in felony cases. They have no statutory right to do that.'

'They are still operating, and milking money from those who plead guilty,' Tolley said. He added: 'They exist for one reason only—to make money.'

'It just isn't right for a mayor to be the chief magistrate and also the chief executive officer who enforces the law.'

While the mayors' courts also handle other violations of municipal ordinances, traffic cases are said by Tolley to be the primary reason for their existence. He said 'there may be a half dozen around the state that are doing a pretty effective job.'

Despite the widespread interpretation that mayors' courts grew out of speed traps with the increased use of the automobile, their history goes back much further. They date back 134 years to 1840.

Opinion And Comment

Child car seats too weak

Consumers Union has come forward with a chilling message of particular interest to parents of toddlers. "Under present federal safety standards," this independent testing laboratory says in a report on a recent test series, "you cannot buy a car safety restraint for a small child with any assurance that it will protect him from serious injury or death in a crash."

The conclusion that adequate equipment for this purpose is unobtainable would be disturbing enough in any case. It is all the more so because of the indication that standards adopted by the government are not stringent enough to afford the protection needed, though this is the point of having standards. Four of the restraints tested meet federal requirements but were judged unacceptable.

Two pertinent considerations come to mind. One is that this is not the first time the inadequacy of car safety restraints for children has been brought to attention. The question has often been raised in recent years, and in 1972 the Consumer Union reported that 12 of 17 restraint systems it tested failed to do an adequate protective job.

Another important consideration

is that this is very far from being an academic matter: there is a heavy traffic accident death toll among children under four years of age. About 12,000 in this category are killed annually. Some 75,000 are injured in crashes. The need for better restraints cannot be denied.

Happily, the government intends to take action. In March the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration will propose higher testing standards and procedures. These should be made effective as soon as possible, so that parents will be able to assure their toddlers adequate protection.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Depression, or just more inflation?

I recently sat in on a Liberty Fund seminar on gold in Indianapolis. The participants were all free enterprisers who believe in relatively unfettered international exchange. They all agreed it is the "market" that establishes a viable currency, not the politicians who may, for one reason or another, try to force government-supported fiat money on the people as legal tender.

None of the participants could be called a gold "mystic." The members of the group merely concurred in thinking that, historically, gold has become the most acceptable international money for reasons connected with its durability and its "precious" metal attributes. Like Mount Everest, it is "there." It outlasts anything else, even silver (which has suffered as a money because it also happens to be an industrial commodity).

The participants in the seminar didn't waste any time fighting over the role of government in industry. They were, to a man, anti-socialist, anti-interventionist. So one might have expected them to come to some agreement about the world economic picture.

THE ASTOUNDING thing, however, was that the seminar became a forum in which two completely opposite prophecies were espoused. Some of those present, men with long experience in international banking, argued that we are now in the early stages of a tremendous world-wide deflation that will see nations as well as individuals forced into either technical or real bankruptcy.

Other predicted more and greater inflations which would, in effect, enable technically bankrupt institutions to pay off their creditors in paper that is backed only by the willingness of future taxpayers to allow themselves to be skinned ad infinitum.

With the experts disagreeing on the course of future events, what is the man in the middle to believe? I came away from the seminar with a sense that the immediate future is absolutely unpredictable. Everything depends on what a number of countries decide to do about so many things that there is no guessing how the cat will jump.

A member of Congress who happened to be sitting in on the discussion told something about the activities of Caspar Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Speaking ostensibly for the White House, Mr. Weinberger has been urging that a new Family Assistance Program be substituted for our present system of welfare payments.

He would, in effect, institute a guaranteed annual family income that would place a floor under everybody. At $1,000 an individual, this would come to $4,000 per average family — a figure made familiar to the voters during the last Presidential election by Sen. McGovern.

To make the Family Assistance Plan ("Big FAP") as distinct from the "Little FAP" proposed by the first Nixon Administration acceptable to conservatives, Weinberger would discontinue such things as the Food Stamp program. He would also turn over many ordinary relief programs to the states and their constituent localities.

If Caspar Weinberger should have his way, and if every U.S. family is to be guaranteed a basic living, would it be possible to deflate the economy?

Wouldn't Big FAP merely underwrite a bigger inflation than we have now?

With a family guarantee of $4,000 a year, everybody would be living in clover should a period of falling prices — a big deflation — ensue. But could there be falling prices with families bidding for a diminishing output of goods and services? Wouldn't the "market," under FAP, tend quite the other way, making things more difficult for the young to pay the accompanying Treasury deficits in the future?

THE "DEFLATION-NOW" theorists fall back on the argument that all the Western governments, faced with deficits, would be "pushing on a string" to keep inflation going. Rising interest rates, so the deflationists argued, would tend to limit future production. There would simply be more bankruptcies and less for everybody.

The one thing the two sides were agreed on is that you can't go wrong on gold, provided you get it at the right price. But where is that "right" price? The "market" will tell, but the market is vulnerable to government decisions.

In any event, it is the underdeveloped world that is going to take it on the chin. The Arab countries have guaranteed some $500 million in relief and support projects to 19 African states. But, without aid, the annual balance of payment deficits of these states will, given the high price of oil, come to some $2 billion.

The developed nations of the West, faced with paying through the nose for their own energy needs, will hardly be in a position to fill the void with old-fashioned foreign aid.

It will undoubtedly flow into worthwhile projects, but at the same time it will free other funds that will be used to buy oil at the present inflated price. In other words, we might as well simply hand the funds directly to the Arab oil syndicate (OPEC).

The nations of the Third World have been having a grand time voting against the United States and Israel at the United Nations. Most of the black African countries have broken off diplomatic relations with Israel and expressed their solidarity with the Arab and the Palestinian guerrilla cause, and it is fair to say that anti-Americanism is their stock in trade.

Obviously I don't particularly like this behavior pattern, but, having no colonial ambitions, I accept their right to kick us around. However, I don't see any reason that we should subsidize their antics.

This strikes me as particularly cogent in the present historical context. The oil nations are presently running up huge cash assets while the United States is suffering from a budgetary deficit. Why should we go $1.5 billion farther in the hole when President McNamara of the World Bank and his Third World clients need only to turn to the generous Arabs?

For example, they might suggest to OPEC that the oil producers establish a two-tier price system: one for the wealthy, industrialized nations, and the other for those with a per capita annual income of less than $375.

I WOULD NOT venture to predict the outcome of this initiative, but in equitable terms one would hope the Arabs would be forthcoming. The Third World, on its own steam, has rushed to embrace the "anti-imperialist, anti-Zionist cause." Surely their Arab friends will now be prepared to aid them in their struggle against poverty. A contribution of $1.5 billion would be petty cash for Col. Qaddafi, the Iraqis or Saudi Arabia.

If the Arabs refused to reward their allies for standing solidly against American and Israeli "imperialism," it would be most regrettable. But then, at some point in the life of every nation, and for that matter every individual, the facts of life have to intrude on egocentric illusions.

In short, while I wish them luck with the Arabs, maybe the time has come for the Third World to learn that you have to pay for an education.

Financial revenues

are distributed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than $46,000 in taxes on financial institutions and securities dealers was distributed today to 41 counties, state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced.

Earlier, the auditor said he distributed $75 million to local government funds in the 88 Ohio counties.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Hubby goes too far playing baby's role

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for that woman in Boston whose husband wets his pants. My husband did, too, but he refused to see a urologist. After two and a half years, ruined furniture and mattresses, I told him if he didn't see a doctor I was going to put him in diapers and rubber bloomers to protect the furniture. (They have them for adults, you know.) To my surprise, he agreed, and now I realize that part of his problem was the desire to be "babied." So I "baby" him, but it's saving my furniture and my sanity.

For the record, Abby, there are 16 million bed-wetters in the United States, and 4 million chronic ones. These figures from Time magazine.

R.P.D.

DEAR R.: Thanks for the statistics. It will be a great comfort to those who are swimming against the tide.

DEAR ABBY: Our son (22) recently married a nice 21-year-old girl. They invited Dad and me to dinner, and she served a meal of Chinese food. It was terrible, but we ate it anyway so as not to hurt anyone's feelings.

The next time they invited us, she made a Hawaiian dinner. Abby, this was worse than the Chinese dinner. My poor husband was up all night with heartburn.

They invited us again, and I called my son and asked him what she was making this time. He said: "Mexican food." Well, maybe I shouldn't have said it, but I asked him when his wife was going to learn how to make American food. He got mad and said when people are invited to dinner they eat whatever is served, and don't complain about it.

Was I wrong? How can I make up for that remark? My husband and I are both Italian, and we eat anything, but this girl's cooking is murder. Maybe I need mother-in-law lessons.

MOTHER-IN-LAW DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: You don't need mother-in-law lessons—your daughter-in-law needs cooking lessons. Invite her over and offer to give her a few. But never criticize her cooking, no matter what she serves. (At least she invites you, which is more than some brides do.)

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the letter from "Bereaved": Years ago when I was "bereaved" I had the following experience:

My husband (a physician) had died after a long illness. I started writing my letters of thanks for condolences almost immediately after the memorial services.

When I was about midway through my letters I had a telephone call from a woman I hardly knew who had sent flowers. She had been a patient of my husband's. Her side of the conversation went like this: "How are you getting along? . . . Did you get my flowers? . . . Exactly what did the doctor die of?"

I'm sure her flowers were an expression of sincere sympathy, but what of the telephone interview? Honestly, now! What is this notion that it is perfectly all right to inquire into the nature of a person's illness, terminal or otherwise?

APPALLED

DEAR APPALLED: People with tact, sensitivity and good manners do not have this notion. But unfortunately those qualities are not taught—they are "caught."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Feb. 11, the 42nd day of 1974. There are 323 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the World War II Yalta Agreement was signed by President Franklin Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin.

On this date: In 1543, King Henry VIII of England and the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V, signed a treaty of alliance against France.

In 1744, French and Spanish ships defeated an English fleet off the Mediterranean port of Toulon.

In 1808, hard coal was first used as fuel — at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

In 1846, the inventor, Thomas Edison, was born in Milan, Ohio.

In 1920, the first business session of the League of Nations was held in London.

In 1971, a treaty banning nuclear weapons from the ocean floor was signed by 63 nations in ceremonies in Washington, London and Moscow.

Ten years ago . . . 82 lives were lost when the Australian destroyer "Voyager" sank off New South Wales after colliding with an Australian aircraft carrier.

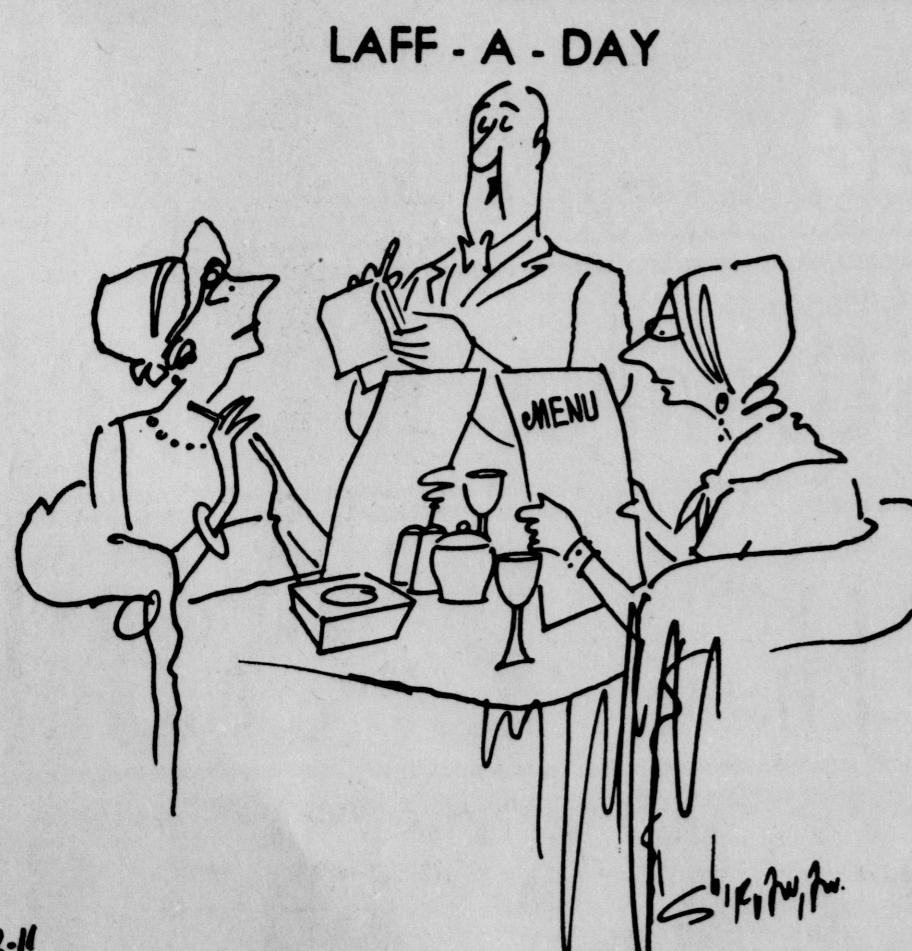

Five years ago . . . the National Commission on Violence said police ineptness and a hardline policy against blacks were the major causes of the riot that broke out in Miami, Fla., during the 1968 Republican National Convention.

One year ago . . . the repatriation of American prisoners in Vietnam began with the ceremonial turnover of a plane load of men at the Hanoi airport.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Jimmy Durante is 81 years old. Actress Kim Stanley is 49.

Thought for today: Every noble work is first impossible. Thomas Carlyle, Scottish writer and historian, 1795-1881.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARPUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The refusal of ABC-TV to air last week's Dick Cavett Show featuring four radicals of the 1960s may raise cries of network censorship. But it isn't all that cut and dried.

Cavett himself approved the grounds for ABC's action.

And if there is to be fingerpointing, it shouldn't be solely at the ABC brass who substituted a bland 1972 rerun for Cavett's taped chat with radicals Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin, Tom Hayden and Rennie Davis.

The talk show star is in a position not unlike that of a hound allowed to bare his fangs with the understanding the bridgework can be removed when it comes time to bite.

According to Cavett's lawyer, his agreement with ABC gives the network the option of requiring him to present the contrasting viewpoints on particular issue within the same program.

An ABC spokesman said the agreement is based on the Federal Communications Commission's fairness doctrine, which requires broadcasters to air contrasting views on controversial issues of public importance.

He said ABC executives, after inspecting the Hoffman-Rubin-Hayden-Davis segment that had been videotaped Wednesday night, decided it lacked sufficient "balance" in five areas discussed.

The areas, he said, "involved the capitalist system, the administration, our system of justice and the courts and (U.S.) foreign policy with regard to Vietnam and Cambodia."

He said Cavett was "asked under the terms of his contract to provide an opposing viewpoint." Cavett refused, he added, and ABC exercised its right to yank the show, an action that occurred just hours before the show was to appear Thursday night.

Cavett subsequently denied the show lacked balance and insisted emphatically he'd provided the contrasting views sought by ABC.

Regardless of whose claim is right, the agreement Cavett signed with ABC still is far more restrictive than the FCC's fairness doctrine. It's ABC's own version of same.

The FCC doctrine doesn't require those "contrasting viewpoints" mentioned by ABC to be in the same program in which controversial issues are raised. Cavett's pact does, if ABC asks for it. And the network did.

A spokesman for Cavett says the star expressed "puzzled wonderment" at ABC's decision Thursday night.

There's no barrage of badmouthing being emitted yet. And viewers may still get to see the disputed show.

Both ABC and Cavett's producer, John Gilroy, say talks are under way to hopefully resolve the "balance" impasse.

"We're going to continue to talk with them," Gilroy says. "We'd like to get it on the air."

Snow removal keeps road workers busy

Snow removal occupied work crews from the city street, state highway and county road departments Monday morning.

Officials from all three departments were concerned with clearing streets and roadways before preparing for other tasks this week.

Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, said three city workers were plowing snow and spreading salt through most of the night Sunday in an effort to clear streets in Washington C.H.

Duncan said the crews launched their clearing operations at 6 p.m. Sunday and worked until midnight before returning at 4 a.m. Monday.

Weather permitting, the city street workers will be clearing brush from the banks of Paint Creek and from alleys throughout Washington C.H. Duncan said several miscellaneous jobs are also scheduled.

CREWS from the Ohio Department of Transportation garage in Fayette County started plowing and spreading salt at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, according to Gene Fitzpatrick, superintendent. Fitzpatrick listed several other jobs

Area Eagles meet here

Approximately 250 members of area Eagles lodges met Sunday at the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge Aerie No. 423, Sycamore St., to induct new members. Of the 17 persons initiated, 15 were joining the Washington C.H. Aerie.

Eagles from Xenia, Springfield, London, Circleville, and five Columbus lodges met for the ceremonies conducted by the Scioto Valley Lodge, Columbus. The Eagles ladies auxiliaries met at the Elks Home, and four women were initiated into the Washington C.H. chapter.

John Crow, a state F.O.E. trustee, was the guest speaker at the men's meeting. He spoke to the group on the meaning of membership and the ideals of the Eagles.

Rotary-Anns are feted with "A Night to Remember"

It was "A Night to Remember" at the Governor's Palace Saturday evening in Mahan Hall. Rotary Club members and Rotary Anns honored Robert Haigler, District Governor of Ohio Rotarians, and Mrs. Haigler and local club president, Phil Grover, and Mrs. Grover.

It was the annual Rotary-Ann meeting, with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crosby in charge of arrangements. Decorating for the Casino' Night party was lavishly accomplished by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pool and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cartwright.

Leo Kraus was responsible for prizes and Bruce Reams took care of printing the "money" used in various games of chance. It bore the likeness of Bob Haigler. Bruce Galloway was in charge of drawing for prizes.

The lobby decorations and furniture were provided by Mr. and Mrs. Don Kirk and Associated Plumbers 'installed' the fireplace.

Approximately 250 Rotary Club members and their guests enjoyed the occasion, dancing to Luther Bolen's Band, in addition to the games and the buffet and snacks served throughout the evening.

Assisting the committee were members of the Jaycees, plus Bart Mahoney and son, Dan, who comprised the "staff" of the mythical casino.

Fifth birthday party

Travis Lee Warner was guest of honor at a birthday party for his fifth birthday, given by Mr. and Mrs. Steven L. Warner, Rt. 4, Culpepper Trace. Guests were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Les Warner, of Blanchester, Doug Lovett, Shane Edwards, Jay Bush, Richard and David Wood.

GS leaders to meet Wednesday

The Girl Scout leader meeting which was postponed last week due to the weather, has been rescheduled for Wednesday from 1 to 3 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, 212 N. Fayette St.

Mrs. Richard Bulger, field representative for the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council, will be present for the meeting, when 'Girl Scout Week' plans will be discussed.

All troops are urged to be represented to pick up Day Camp folders and to help plan the Juliette Lowe celebration, which will be a "Circus" theme this year. The observance will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. March 13 in Mahan Hall.

Mrs. Ed Warning is public relations representative.

Health care pros, cons are heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's health plan would bring medical services up to higher standards all over the nation without requiring new taxes, says Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

On the other hand, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has introduced a health bill of his own in Congress, said the administration's proposal does not "guarantee quality health as a matter of right to all Americans."

"There have to be adjustments in these areas: In the delivery, in the guaranteeing of good quality health at a price people can afford to pay," said the Massachusetts Democrat.

Both Weinberger and Kennedy, in separate interviews Sunday, expressed confidence that some form of health insurance legislation would be passed this year.

Weinberger spoke on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" while Kennedy was questioned on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation."

The HEW secretary denied that Nixon's plan would mean billions in windfall profits for insurance companies. But, he added: "If it results in a reasonable profit that doesn't disturb me a bit."

He said competition and federal and state regulation would prevent undue profits to the private insurance firms that would handle the vastly increased health coverage.

The estimated cost to individuals would be from $125 to $140 a year, said Weinberger, "and we hope it would be less eventually because of competition."

The Nixon plan is based principally on private insurance purchased by employers and employees. No individual or family, after paying a share of the premium, would be liable for more than $1,500 a year for the broad range of health services covered by the policy.

See protein feed market stabilized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The large U.S. supply of soybeans is helping to stabilize the protein feed market, the Agriculture Department's outlook and situation board says, and soybean meal prices probably will continue near their current levels into spring.

The board said protein feed prices are lower and much more stable than last year when they began their historic run-up.

The comments on meal came in the board's regular "feed situation" report, which will be generally available Feb. 15. It basically repeats supply and demand projections of last month.

The board still sees feedgrain use and exports running below 1972-73 but exceeding this season's production, meaning by Oct. 1 a carryover of only about 27 million tons, the smallest since 1952.

Production is still forecast at 235 million tons of corn, grain sorghum, barley and oats — 15 per cent more than last season.

Ohio Perspective

Deafness mistaken for retardation

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Donald has spent the last 25 years of his life trying to disprove his nickname, "Big Dummy."

At the age of 40, he has finally succeeded.

Donald is a former patient at Orient State Institute for the mentally retarded. A probate court sent him there when he was 15.

He is now a resident of a special group home in Columbus, where he is learning new skills and is on the verge of his first real job.

When Donald first arrived at Orient he was banished to Farmview, a prison-like cottage, said Dr. Albert Soforenko, institute administrator.

"He was a large-framed fellow, weighing about 240 pounds," Soforenko said. "He was a deaf mute at the time, and was something to be reckoned with on the streets in his hometown when he made guttural sounds. He reflected the same thing to the staff."

"He was placed at Farmview to do heavy work and when he wasn't working he was locked up. He struck out at the staff and the staff would strike back in protection."

Soforenko said, "That kind of an environment becomes a vicious cycle. It does not allow for growth, and it almost becomes a matter of survival of the fittest."

Soforenko and the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Hygiene ended the vicious cycle last August when Farmview was closed.

Donald moved to a smaller cottage where he had privileges the freedom to come and go during the day. He has no problem, the institute administrator said.

Soon after the transfer, Soforenko said, Donald was re-evaluated by the speech department at Orient.

"We found that he suffered from normal deafness," Soforenko said. "He reflected retardation only because he had not been exposed to varied experiences in the last 25 years. The retardation was not inherent in Donald."

On Jan. 9, Donald moved to a special home in Columbus, where he is learning sign language and lip reading.

After mastering communication skills, the Ohio Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation will try to find him employment, possibly as a printer.

"Donald is quite a symbol of success," said Soforenko. "He is adjusting very well on his first time out of the institution in 25 years."

"Hopefully, we have turned him around, and he will make it as a normal deaf persons."

FATALLY WOUNDED POLICEMAN — Police Officer David Marks, 26, is rushed into Oakland, Calif., Highland Hospital after he and another officer were gunned down in an East Oakland school. Both were fatally wounded. The suspect was wounded by police and is in critical condition.

Regents may reverse policy on campus establishment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-year policy which prohibits funding a new campus for higher education within 30 miles of an existing institution may be reversed this week. The Ohio Board of Regents is voting on the establishment of a branch campus in Geauga County.

A resolution to spend $1.5 million to construct a Kent State University facility at Burton will be presented by university officials at the board's session Friday in Cincinnati.

For the past three years the board has opposed the proposal because four other campuses exist within 30 miles of the blueprinted branch.

But two sessions of the Ohio General Assembly have appropriated money for the project prompted by Sen. Robert Stockdale, R-31 Kent.

Vice Chancellor William Coulter says the regents seem "to have run out of authority."

"To continue the roadblock is beyond the regents' general authority," he said.

The regents opposed the allocation of funds a second time, but were ignored.

The chancellor said he agrees with the board's rule that campuses to be located more than 30 miles apart, because a student can commute less than that distance.

In the area of the planned branch, Lakeland Community College, Cuyahoga Community College, the University of Akron and Kent State all have campuses.

The board also plans to hear a proposal by the Rio Grande Community College Board of Trustees to make the institution state-supported.

That project has also been on the drawing board for three years.

The regents authorized the board to make plans, but turned down early proposals because of financial concerns as a result of the sparse population in the southern Ohio area.

Trustees are reportedly considering an operating levy to help support the school.

500 Republicans schedule meeting

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 500 Republican leaders from 13 states including Ohio will attend a conference in Chicago next month.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and California Gov. Ronald Reagan will appear at the March 29-30 session, planners said.

Hi-Y 'mock trials' Saturday

Can a woman shopper, surprised by a noise which causes her to fall, file suit against a department store for injuries and can a person collect $85,000 for claimed injuries as the result of being struck by an auto?

These questions are among those which jurors will decide Saturday when Judge Evelyn W. Coffman presides over this year's Hi-Y Youth in Government mock trials in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

As in past years, the Washington Senior High School Hi-Y Club is again participating in the Ohio Youth in Government program. The purpose of the program is to acquaint students with state government by actually going through the procedures in mock situations.

Comprised of the legislative and judicial programs, the event is sponsored by the Ohio YMCA. For the judicial program, members of the Hi-Y Club begin in the fall to prepare cases, working with legal advisors in Washington C.H. During February, participating clubs conduct their local trials, the result of which are then appealed before a mock Supreme Court session in Columbus in April.

"Youth attorneys" must review the cases, prepare briefs and contentions, locate witnesses and present their cases before a "jury" and judge.

THE STUDENT attorneys will be permitted to have adult legal advisors to assist them in preparing their cases and the Common Pleas Court room will be used with Judge Coffman presiding.

Two cases will be heard Saturday. Hi-Y youth attorneys Jim Vess and Doug Wheat will be seeking a monetary judgement for their client from a local department store. Defending the business will be Hi-Y attorneys Rory Souther and Brian Cook. The legal advisor for Vess and Wheat is James A. Kiger, Fayette County prosecuting attorney, and attorney Robert Simpson is advising Souther and Cook.

The second case, a civil suit involving a woman pedestrian and the driver of a car which reportedly struck her, will find Hi-Y attorneys David Mustine and Dewey Foster defending the motorist as Hi-Y lawyers Garth Cox and Tim O'Flynn represent the plaintiff. Attorney Otis Hess Jr. is the legal advisor for Mustine and Foster. Cox and O'Flynn will be advised by attorney John Bryan.

Witnesses and jurors for the mock trials are Washington Senior High School students, mostly Hi-Y Club members.

Coordinating the program is George Shoemaker, a WSHS faculty member who is co-advisor of the WSHS Hi-Y Club. Additionally, Shoemaker is the judicial coordinator for the statewide

Youth in Government program this year.

BOTH Shoemaker and Austin Crusie, the other club advisor, feel that the key to the program is the cooperation and interest expressed by Judge Coffman, R.B. (Bud) Tharp, court bailiff, and the Washington C.H. attorneys, all of whom donate their time and professional talents to the project.

"It's very gratifying to see these young men work with the adults of our community to learn about Ohio's judicial processes. As a result I feel they can gain an appreciation and respect for local, state and national law," Crusie said.

After Saturday's mock trials, the losing student attorneys will prepare appeals to be presented before a mock Supreme Court session in Columbus this spring. The young lawyers will serve a turn as Supreme Court justices

Extend deadline for candidates' finance reports

The Rev. Dr. Robert A. Raines, chairman of the Ohio Ethics Commission, has notified all election boards that the commission — at its initial meeting of the year — extended the filing date for financial disclosure statements for all candidates seeking election in the May primary election to March 1.

Dr. Raines said the disclosure forms were approved at the commission's meeting Jan. 29, and presently are in the hands of the printer. These forms should be distributed to boards of elections throughout Ohio this week, he said.

He advised that submission of the completed financial disclosure statement to the commission on or before March 1 will be deemed as compliance with the law.

All prospective candidates for the May primary in Fayette County must check with the Fayette County Board of Election on or about Tuesday to obtain the forms.

The form lists space for the sources of all income, although the candidate does not have to list the amount of income — only its source.

to hear appeals from other Ohio Hi-Y Club mock trials.

The Hi-Y Club members will be using the actual Supreme Court chambers and courtroom for their appeal trials, a privilege only the YMCA Youth in Government program enjoys.

The mock trials which will be held in Fayette County Common Pleas Court are open to the public. Crusie said the first case is scheduled for 8 a.m. Saturday and the second case is slated for 1 p.m.

Truck stops reopening

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana State Police and National Guard officials planned to confer today to decide whether to continue saturation patrols of the state's highways due to the truckers' dispute.

State Police reported no incidents of violence Sunday or early today, and most trucks were expected back on the roads.

Central Indiana truck stops operated by Blue & White Service Inc. reopened as scheduled about 6 p.m. Sunday. A spokesman for the chain reported business was brisk at diesel fuel pumps.

Creighton tops Marquette

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Marquette Coach Al McGuire has been saying all season his Marquette team was just not as good as everyone thought it was.

Creighton proved him right Saturday, beating the sixth-ranked Warriors 75-69.

"I think they're a better club," Marquette Coach Al McGuire said about Creighton, which handed the Warriors, 18-3, only their second home loss in 101 contests. "I personally don't think we're that good a ball club. I've been saying that all year. We have talent if we ever put it together ... but we haven't."

Doug Brookins scored 25 for Creighton, now 18-4, which rallied from an early 12-point deficit. Marquette's season-leading scorer Bo Ellis fouled out in the last five minutes.

Other than foul trouble, McGuire said, "I thought we played pretty well personally. That's actually the best we've shot in weeks, I think, but we ran into a great team that is excellently coached."

In other Top Ten games, top-ranked UCLA defeated Oregon State 80-75; No. 2 North Carolina State ripped Furman 111-91; No. 3 Notre Dame trampled Duke 87-68; No. 4 North Carolina beat Georgia Tech 112-70; fifth-ranked Vanderbilt pulled away from Mississippi State 60-59; No. 7 Maryland walloped George Washington 92-71; No. 8 Alabama trounced Tennessee 73-54; No. 9 Long Beach downed San Diego State 98-72 and No. 10 Pittsburgh continued on its winning way with a 71-56 victory over Syracuse.

With 12 minutes to play and a 53-40 advantage, UCLA looked like a shoo-in victor. But Oregon State made the Bruins clamor again to defend their top spot in the rankings, putting on an 11-2 scoring burst to cut the margin to four points.

Bill Walton was the Bruins' offensive leader, scoring 31 points and grabbing 19 rebounds.

David Thompson scored 17 of his 26 points in the second half when North Carolina State pulled away from Furman for its 16th straight victory. State shot 55 per cent in the first game of a doubleheader at Charlotte, N.C., as Tommy Burleson added 18 points and little Monte Towe 17.

In the second game of that doubleheader, North Carolina stung Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets with a 20-2 burst in the first seven minutes of the game, hitting 60.9 per cent against Tech's 35 per cent.

Adrian Dantley, who collapsed from dehydration two weeks ago, showed no ill effects as he scored 27 points for Notre Dame, which opened a 12-point halftime margin against Duke and then coasted to victory.

Jan van Breda Kolff sank a jumper in the final seconds to provide fifth-ranked Vanderbilt with their margin of victory.

Tom McMillen and John Lucas combined for 44 points as Maryland went far ahead in the second half with a 24-4 spurt.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell, who ordered a Sunday practice last week because of a letdown on defense, said the final 20 minutes Saturday was "one of our better games defensively."

Alabama hit 18 of 39 field goals in the first half and T.R. Dunn supplied the 'Bama punch in the second half with 13 points.

Glenn McDonald scored 23 points for Long Beach, now 18-2. Clifford Ponder followed with 18 for the 49ers, who were scoreless from the floor for the first five minutes before hitting 17 points in the next five.

Billy Knight scored 18 of his 24 points in the second half to help Pitt capture its 19th straight game. Knight also had 19 rebounds.

Marvin Barnes scored 23 points, grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked eight shots to lead 11th-ranked Providence to 91-60 victory over Seton Hall. Kevin Stacoin added 18 points for the Friars.

Indiana, No. 12, scored more than 100 points for the first time in Coach Bob Knight's three-year tenure, blasting Illinois 107-67.

Sophomore Alexander English and senior Brian Winters scored 40 points between them to lead 13th-ranked South Carolina past Dayton 81-68.

Southern California, No. 14, came back from a 20-20 tie at halftime to defeat Oregon 59-53 while Ulysses Bridgeman scored 19 and Allen Murphy 18 to lead 15th-rated Louisville 81-62 over West Texas State.

Michigan bested the Ohio State 91-68, with Campy Russell scoring 22 points for the 16th-ranked Wolverines.

Danny Knight scored 34 points to pace No. 17 Kansas to a 80-71 victory over Oklahoma; Texas-El Paso, No. 18, lost to Brigham Young 56-54 and No. 19 Oral Roberts, with Sam McCants breaking the game open early, defeated Pepperdine 98-71.

Larry Fogle, the national's leading scorer, had himself a field day, scoring 55 points in Canisius' 129-109 victory over St. Peter's N.J.

City bowling

The Mens City Bowling Tournament was held Sunday at Bowland Lanes with 34 teams participating.

The four top teams were Falcon Vending 3010, Backenstoe Market 2996, Pennington Bread 2976 and Jordan's Swine Breeders 2970.

Falcon Vending's top score came from John Binegar's 493, Al Harfield's 503, Steve Merritt's 500, Dick Wood's 539 and Rick Donohoe's 540. The winning team also held a 44 pin handicap.

Paul Warnecke won the high three game series with a 670 and also high single game with 267.

The doubles and singles tournament will be next Sunday starting at 10 a.m.

MT matmen finish sixth

The Miami Trace wrestlers finished sixth in the Chillicothe Invitational Saturday competing with eight other teams.

Chillicothe finished first with Wilmington grabbing the second spot. The other finishers were Bishop Hartley, Portsmouth, Ironton, Miami Trace, Hamilton Garfield, Hillsboro and Greenview ended up ninth.

Gary Cobb won the 132 pound division with four wins - three by pins. Jay Crumley took fourth in the 167 pound class, Don Dunton garnered second in the 175 pound bracket and Rick Gleadall finished fourth in the heavyweight class.

The next outing for the Panther grapplers will be Saturday in Circleville for the SCOL Tournament.

WOODS SETS WORLD RECORD — George Woods waves his arms after setting the world record for the shot put during the Times Indoor Games in Los Angeles with a mark of 72-feet, 2 1/4 inches. The distance is greater than the old indoor record and bests the outdoor mark also.

Toledo Rockets nip OU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo's Cinderella Rockets now are the team to beat for the Mid-American Conference basketball title after another harrowing comeback.

"We're in a position to decide our own destiny. We can do it," said Toledo Coach Bob Nichols Saturday night after the Rockets snapped a first place tie with Ohio University, nipping the Bobcats 80-79.

That gave Toledo, the preseason last place selection of writers, a 6-2 conference record. The Rockets are one game ahead of Ohio and Bowling Green with four MAC games to play, three on the road.

Cornelius Cash led Bowling Green past Miami of Ohio 64-60, all but knocking the defending champions out of title contention. Miami is 4-4.

Dan Roundfield's layup with 58 seconds left forced an overtime and Central Michigan, 3-4, went on to clip Kent State 83-79. The loss dropped the Flashes deeper into last place with a 1-4 mark.

In nonconference activity, Mike Steele's 21 points led Western Michigan to its seventh straight home victory, 78-55 over Eastern Michigan, and Northern Illinois edged Ball State, 75-74.

Toledo trailed Ohio 44-30 at halftime, then switched to high gear in the second half. The Rockets scored 50 points and hit 66 per cent of their shots in that span.

"There was no great strategy involved," Nichols said. "It was just a case of playing harder. We got the ball down the court awfully fast and went at the basket hard."

Nichols isn't surprised the Rockets ride in first place at this late stage. "We coaches are half nuts," he said. "We think we can win them all before the season begins."

Larry Cole's basket with 18 seconds left provided Toledo with its margin. Cole wound up with 17 points and Jim Kindle, his guard running mate, had 24.

Walter Luckett fired in 23 Ohio points.

Cash scored 11 of his 19 points in the last nine minutes and 6-foot-8 junior said of his spiree, "I just wanted to win the game, that's all."

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley benched Cash for poor first half play. "When I sent him back," Haley said, "he was just fantastic."

Darrell Hedric, Miami's mentor, didn't rule his team out of the race yet, but said, "We have a tough road to go and four losses make it even tougher."

Ron Pouquette, a 6-8 freshman, paced Central Michigan with 19 points and Roundfield finished with 18. Kent's Tom Brabson pumped in 23 points and Brad Robinson had a career high 26 rebounds for the Flashes.

Meanwhile, Ohio State dropped deeper in the Big Ten basement with a 91-68 thumping at Michigan and

Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor said, "We're not even spoilers."

Bill Andreas scored 20 points for the Buckeyes, 6-12 overall and 1-7 in the Big Ten. Ohio State returns home to face Michigan State tonight.

Lloyd Batts hit 20 points, seven of them in a 40-second stretch in the last two minutes, to lead Cincinnati, 16-5, past Houston 84-73. "He's just super."

Dayton's tournament hopes took an 81-68 jolt at 13th ranked South Carolina. The Flyers dropped to a 13-7 record. Alexander English hit 22 points for the 16-3 Gamecocks.

Xavier sagged to a 7-12 mark after falling at home to DePaul 77-70. Mike Plunkett had 18 points for Xavier, Greg Boyd 24 for DePaul.

In the Ohio Conference, Wittenberg, 9-1, retained its sole lead with 51 per cent shooting against Denison for a 63-54 victory. Capital and Muskingum, both 8-2, remained one game behind the Tigers.

Capital polished off Baldwin-Wallace 63-43 and Muskingum took Marietta 59-50.

In other OC action, Heidelberg kept Ohio Wesleyan in last place 71-56. Mount Union beat Kenyon 78-66 and Oberlin mastered Wooster 84-74.

Malone moved one full game in front of Urbana in the Mid-Ohio Conference with an 85-82 decision over Rio Grande. Malone is 7-1 and Urbana 6-2 in the league. Cedarville whipped Ohio Dominican 77-63 in the only other MOC pairing.

Defiance kept alive its faint hopes for a third straight Hoosier-Buckeye title. The Yellow Jackets, 85-83 victors over Findlay on Gregg Mugg's last second basket, are 11-3 to leading Hanover's 11-1 record.

WCH-MT game info

The game Tuesday night between Washington C.H. and Miami Trace at WSHS will start at 6:00 p.m. with the doors opening at 5:15.

Extra bleachers have been established bringing the seating capacity to 1,730. Some standing room tickets will also be sold.

Once the seating capacity has been reached the doors will be closed for safety regulations according to athletic director Bob Bane.

Iggy Katona wins race at Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Step aside George Blanda, Sam Snead and Hank Aaron. Iggy Katona wants to move to the head of the class in the sports world's "Over the Hill Gang."

And David Pearson will soon be eligible for membership, though it's the last thing he wants to think about.

Katona and Pearson may even want a special niche in the older's club. They are race drivers, and good ones, in what is considered the most dangerous of all bit-time sports.

Katona, who admits to 58 summers, drove a Dodge to victory Sunday in the first event of Daytona's 16th "Speed Weeks" festival, a 200-mile race for short track drivers aligned with the Midwest-based Auto Racing Club of America.

Pearson, who will be 40 before another Christmas arrives, powered a Mercury to a speed of 185.017 miles per hour to capture the front row pole position for next Sunday's $200,000 Daytona 500 stock car race for Grand National drivers of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Richard Petty, who like Pearson is a $1 million career prize money winner, mailed the other front row spot with a speed of 183.176 mph. At 36, Petty is a few years away from membership in anything except clubs for the extremely wealthy.

Katona, who started racing in 1935, posted an average speed of 145.044 m.p.h. in nipping Ron Hutcherson 31, of Keokuk, Iowa, by five car lengths.

It was his third victory at Daytona Beach and, he figures, his 321st triumph in competition.

Third place went to Earl Ross of Ailsa Craig, Ont., in a Chevrolet; fourth to Paul Feldner of Richfield, Wis., in a Dodge; and fifth to Jim Tobin of Hudson, Ill., also in a Dodge.

Hutcherson, who drove a Mercury, and Katona and Ross were the big leaders. But it was Katona who ripped by his two chief rivals going down Daytona International Speedway's 3,010-foot backstretch and gained the lead for good with four laps remaining.

Pearson and Petty, who together have won seven NASCAR Grand National racing titles, now have exclusive rights to the front row for the Daytona 500, which because of the energy crisis will be run at 450 miles this year.

Thirty-six other Grand National entries made qualifying runs Sunday, and their speeds will be used for lineup purposes in two 112.5-mile elimination races Thursday.

Tournament talk

The drawing for the Southeastern AA Sectional basketball tournament was held Sunday at Unioto high school with Washington C.H. placing as the No. 1-seeded team.

The South Central Ohio League leader received the honors on the basis of its 13-3 record. Hillsboro was picked as the second seeded team with a 9-8 overall record.

Unioto high school will be the site of all the sectional games and all games will have a starting time of 7:30 p.m. The seating capacity of the gym is 1600 and all seats will sell for $1.50 with no reserved seats being sold.

The first game is Feb. 2 between Oak Hill (7-9) facing Jackson (5-10). The second match will post Greenfield (7-9) against Wellston (1-14) on Feb. 23. Washington C.H. will play the winner of the Oak Hill-Jackson game Feb. 27. Hillsboro competes against the winner of the Wellston-Greenfield contest Feb. 28.

Finals in the sectional will take place March 2, with the winner going to the District tournament at Rio Grande College.

Michigan smothers OSU

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan isn't going to run away with the Big Ten basketball championship, but the Wolverines have kept up front by running opponents ragged.

Michigan's fast-break offense, combined with a smothering, usually man-to-man defense, is proving to be too much for slower but taller competition.

Such was the case Saturday as the 16th-ranked Wolverines ran Ohio State dizzy in a 91-68 conference victory.

It upped Michigan's league record to 7-1, the same as co-leader Purdue, the only conference team to beat Michigan. Michigan is 15-3 over-all, its best record at this point since the Cazzie Russell era of the mid-1960s.

The teams other losses were to UCLA and to Detroit.

Michigan hosts Northwestern tonight and should have about as easy a time as it did against the Buckeyes. Northwestern is 2-6 in the conference and 7-10 over-all, while cellar-dwelling Ohio State is 1-7 in the Big Ten and 6-12 for the season.

"I've never seen an Ohio State team in this position before," moaned Fred Taylor, dean of Big Ten cage coaches, now in his 16th season with the Buckeyes. "We're not even spoilers!"

MT plays Marietta

The drawing for the Southeastern AAA Sectional basketball tournament was held Sunday at Rio Grande College with Chillicothe being placed as the No. 1 seeded team and Marietta receiving the second seeded position. Portsmouth selected a bye and will play the winner of the lower bracket.

All of the sectional games will be played at Rio Grande College with a starting time of 7:30 p.m.

Miami Trace is in the lower bracket and will play Marietta Feb. 28 with the winner of that contest competing against Portsmouth. The first game will be Feb. 21 posting Logan (11-5) against Athens (9-7). The second game is Feb. 22 with Lancaster (3-13) going against top seeded Chillicothe (12-3). The winner of those two contests will compete against each other March 1, for a berth to the District games at Muskingum College.

Miami Trace (10-6) plays Marietta (11-5) Feb. 28 with the winner going against Postsmouth (10-7) March 2 for a berth to the District at Muskingum College.

They'll Do It Every Time

Had a horse, got a buggy

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP) — The gasoline shortage has pushed 70-year-old Fred Addington back to the slower pace of an earlier day. He drives a horse-drawn sulky on daily errands through this suburb of Hartford.

He decided in September to get a buggy to go with his two horses. An Ohio firm delivered it.

On recent round trip to the bank, motor traffic backed up behind Addington. The trip took him about an hour and 15 minutes.

For colder winter weather, Addington says he has a sleigh and a coonskin coat.

THAT'S A FACT

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Ecology's Links to Health

When ecology first captured the imagination of the American people, the greatest interest was concentrated on pollution of the air, our watersheds and river streams.

Little concentration was evident on the relationship between pollution and actual health.

Today there is an increased awareness of the methods by which environment affects the physical and emotional health of a community. This new consciousness may have a profound effect on the pressures made to control pollutions in modern environment.

Chronic bronchitis, for example, can lead to emphysema and the debilitation from this dread disease. And crippling bronchitis can often be traced to exposure to occupational hazards.

Noxious gases like sulphur oxides poured into the air by factories can irritate the respiratory system and lead to permanent injury of the lungs.

Thousands of new chemicals are introduced into manufacturing processes whose hazardous wastes are spewed into the environment.

Beryllium, a metal used in rocket fuels and nuclear reactors, can be responsible for a wide variety of lung and simple nervous system diseases.

Commission delays ditch job contract

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners reviewed bids submitted for improvements on a ditch project, but postponed the awarding of a contract during a regular weekly meeting Monday morning.

Commissioners were expected to award the contract for improvements on the Persinger ditch project Monday afternoon after reviewing the two bids submitted and consulting with Charles P. Wagner, Fayette County engineer.

The awarding of the contract was postponed to provide Wagner an opportunity to inspect one of the two bids submitted for the project.

A bid of $6,139.18 was submitted by the Robert Huff Construction Co. A bid submitted by the Marshall McFarland Construction Co., totaled $6,561.09 and exceeded the cost estimate prepared by the county engineer's office. The engineer's cost estimate was $6,444.55.

The Persinger ditch is located on the CCC Highway-W, approximately a mile west of Rattlesnake Creek. It is an open ditch and the petition for improvements was submitted by Dr. J.H. Persinger.

COMMISSIONERS were also scheduled to hold the first public hearing concerning improvements on the Perrill ditch project at 1:30 p.m. Monday in their office. The Perrill ditch is located along Ohio 729, near Jeffersonville and runs in an easterly direction into Sugar Creek about a mile from the U.S. 35-Ohio 729 intersection. It presently is a closed ditch.

Chairman J. Herbert Perrill said the county has received a payment from a state grant for improvements at the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. He said the state grant is being provided from state general revenue sharing funds. The county will provide a $23,000 share for the $57,000 project. In other matters, Reginald (Chink) Davis, county dog warden, submitted 15 reports for the week.

A representative from the Fayette County Board of Commissioners will be attending a meeting of the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission at 10 a.m. Thursday in Columbus.

Speech-Hearing Center operating

CHILLICOTHE — The South Central Ohio Speech and Hearing Center, located in Chillicothe, is now in full operation and serving seven-county area including Washington C.H.

Individuals of all ages with any type of communication disorder may come to the center to receive diagnostic and therapy services. The center's professional staff consists of two speech pathologists, qualified to perform diagnostic testing and therapy for persons with speech or language problems, and an audiologist, qualified to perform diagnostics and therapy for those with hearing problems. All members of the professional staff hold a master's degree in their field of specialization.

Among the disorders treated are hearing problems, language problems resulting from a stroke, delayed language in children, articulation problems, voice problems, stuttering, cleft palate, laryngectomies and any other problem resulting in a breakdown of communicative abilities.

Individual and group therapy is offered. The center also provides services, on a contractual basis, to other community agencies such as schools, Head Start, hospitals and special clinics.

The center is fully equipped with the most modern diagnostic and therapeutic materials, including a sound-proof suite for hearing testing. Mrs. Ruth Pratt, director, encourages those individuals in the Washington C.H. area needing speech or hearing services to contact the center by calling 773-2679.

Fees are based on the amount of income and number of dependents in the family.

President hears call for courage

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon attended church services near the White House and heard a sermon calling for moral courage to face current problems.

The Rev. George M. Doherty, whose sermon was titled "What Happened to Courage," said man should have the courage to face failure.

"We just can't tolerate the idea we might lose. We must win in all our endeavors," he said Sunday.

Nixon drove three blocks to the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church with his wife Pat, daughter and son-in-law Julie and David Eisenhower and Mamie Eisenhower, David's grandmother.
